FIND BODY OF MAN IN RIVER

Ex-Mayor Kearns of Waltham Last Seen Near Spot in Watertown Where Body Was Found Today

The body of a man believed to be former Mayor Thomas F. Kearns of Waltham was this afternoon discovered wedged in between the rocks in the Charles River back of the building of the L. C. Chase Company, on Pleasant street, Watertown.

The police of Watertown, Newton and Waltham were notified. Metropolitan police hurried to the scene in a motorboat, but were handicapped by the ice in reaching the rocks. According to friends of former Mayor Kearns in Waltham and Watertown, he was seen in the vicinity of Pleasant street shortly before he was reported missing.

HOLDS INQUEST ON BRAKEMAN'S DEATH

Special Justice Cutler of the Chelsea Court today held an inquest on the death of Alden G. Gould of Newton Junction, N. H., a Boston & Maine brakeman who was killed by electricity, January 27, near the Revere station.

The finding of Judge Cutler will be turned over to the coroner. It is believed that the man was killed by an electric shock sustained when he placed one hand on a wet electric light pole while turning a switch with the other

TO ARRAIGN ORPET MONDAY

Waukegan, Ill., March 8.—Will H. Orpet was arraigned before Judge Edwards today and after a motion by his attorney to have the indictment charging him with the murder of Marian Frances Lambert quashed, his hearing was set for Monday.

At this time a motion will be presented by the defence asking a postponement for several months.

MRS. ARLON TIBBETS, who was Jennie Ewing, Medford High School girl who eloped and married last Christmas.

SCHOOL ELOPER AND BRIDE FORGIVEN

Medford High School pupils today discussed the elopement of one of their schoolmates, Miss Jennie Ewing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Ewing, No. 5 Elsmere terrace, South Medford, whose marriage to Arlon Tibbets, son of Willis Tibbets of Henry avenue, Medford, became known today.

The bride was a member of the sophomore class at Medford High and is but 16 years old. Her husband is two years her senior and is an electrician in Medford.

On the day after Christmas they quietly went to the home of a justice of the peace in Medford Hillside, where the knot was tied. Both returned to their homes, the bride continuing her studies at Medford High.

When the February vacation came the couple disappeared. The bride left a note, telling of her marriage and begging forgiveness of her parents.

MOHR CASE ECHO IN COURT

Asst. Atty-Gen. Branch Shakes Fist in Face of W. H. Lewis at a Hearing on Perjury Charges

Providence, March 8.—Scenes in the Mohr trial were recalled today when Assistant Attorney-General Claude R. Branch shook his clenched fist in the face of Attorney William H. Lewis of Boston and demanded an apology for an alleged insinuation.

The incident took place in the Sixth District Court, during the hearing on charges of perjury of Mrs. Bessie Spellman and Mrs. Gertrude May Dailey, wife and half-sister, respectively, of Henry Spellman, one of the two stablemen convicted of the murder of Dr. C. Franklin Mohr.

The women, who were charged with having perjured themselves during the Mohr trial, were held for the Grand Jury by Judge Howard B. Gorham under bonds of $500 each.

The demand for an apology was brought about by a statement of Mr. Lewis, calling the court's attention to certain underlined portions of an affidavit introduced by the government.

DEMANDS APOLOGY.

Assistant Attorney-General French leaped to his feet and, trembling with rage, shouted:

"I demand an apology for that insinuation. You wouldn't dare make anything but an insinuation, and if you are a gentleman you will apologize."

WOMEN'S BAIL REDUCED.

The affidavit was made by Mrs. Dailey, and stated that she did not see Spellman in her house on the night of August 31, when Dr. Mohr was shot. While testifying in the Mohr trial she said that Spellman, who had separated from his wife, came in about 9 p. m.

Mrs. Spellman's alleged perjury, according to the government, consisted in a statement made to Captain of Inspectors George H. Monahan that Spellman had supper at her house that night, while on the witness stand she said that she did not see him.

The government claimed that the witnesses "knowingly, doggedly and tenaciously" committed perjury, and that if they were allowed to go free it would encourage lying in court by other witnesses.

Lewis, who was counsel for Cecil Victor Brown and Henry Spellman in the Mohr trial, appeared for the women. He declared that their action was not wilful, but merely contradictory, and that there was but a slim peg on which to base the charge.

Upon his request the women's bail, originally placed at $1,000 each, was reduced by Judge Gorham, and was furnished by Dr. James E. Gilbert. The reduction will not go into effect until Saturday, however, at which time Lewis will appear before Judge Charles F. Stearns and argue for a new trial for Brown and Spellman.

CHEMICAL FACTORY BLOWN UP

Fire in Niagara Falls Plant Is Still Beyond Control; Nearly 100 Employes First Reported Dead

Niagara Falls, N. Y., March 8.—While firemen stand helplessly by, a chemical-fed blaze which cannot be extinguished today raged in the enormous plant of the Niagara Alkali-Chemical Company, and threatened the entire place with destruction.

One man is known to be dead and another possibly fatally injured as a result of a tremendous explosion which started the fire and was followed by a number of others.

The fire was eating its way toward three large chemical tanks this afternoon and further destructive explosions, which would damage other buildings in that portion of the city, were feared.

The company issued an official statement this afternoon accounting for all the men who were in the building, believed to be about one hundred.

The peroxide plant, in which the explosions occurred, is in ruins. This plant contained apparatus for the manufacture of practically all the chloroform used in the United States. Nitrates were also manufactured as a by-product, and it is understood that the company had many war orders.

Because of the nature of the burning chemicals it was impossible for the firemen to extinguish the blaze, as water only caused further explosions. The officials ascribed no cause for the detonation, but rumors of foreign agencies are heard.

The plant was under heavy guard, but as far as could be learned Peter Piwowavski was the only man killed.

The structure where the explosion occurred was of brick and steel construction, about 300 by 75 feet in dimensions. The building, with its massive steel girders and slate-covered steel roof, was lifted into the air and literally blown to pieces by the force of the explosion, which was felt in downtown restaurants over a mile distant.

The successive explosions drew a large throng to the scene, despite the lateness of the hour, it being thought that the du Pont Powder Works had been blown up.

ITALIANS PREPARE TO DEFEND VALONA

Rome, March 8.—Italian military forces at Valona have been strengthening to resist the attack by Austro-Hungarian troops that is expected to develop in the near future. The War Office announced today that Lieutenant-General Settimi Piacentini had been appointed comander of the Italian expeditionary corps in Albania which will defend Valona.

GERMANS POUND AT VERDUN

Admission by Paris of Gains by Foe Is Followed by Claim That Great Offensive Will Fail

Paris, March 8.—It is admitted that Verdun is nearly two thirds surrounded by German troops.

The southernmost point attained by the Germans in the Argonne is a position southeast of LaChalade. The distance from this place to St. Mihiel is thirty-four miles. Hill 265, south of Forges, the farthest southern point to which the Germans have moved on the west bank of the Meuse, is twenty-eight miles from St. Mihiel.

Thus the Germans must advance thirty-four miles to close the gap from LaChalade. But they must drive the French from powerful positions.

Berlin's latest official report says that in their operations against Verdun on the west bank of the Meuse German troops have captured 3,335 prisoners and taken the villages of Forges and Regeneville and the heights of Rabon and Cumieres.

By their advance to and capture of Cumieres height they are now less than four miles from Verdun on its northwest front.

The official report announcing the decided German gains about Verdun also states that the French launched an attack in the Champagne region last night, the battle still being in progress. Of the prisoners taken on the west bank of the Meuse fifty-eight are officers.

Following is the text of the official report:

GERMANS CHARGED WITH BANK PLOTS

By International News Service.

London, March 8.—"It is learned on high authority that Germany is plotting to foment financial troubles in neutral countries," says the Financial News. "The idea is to wreck banks by nominating German agents, who are to incur large liabilities and then default. Holland, Denmark, Brazil and Argentina are said to be the chief centres of these operations."

KAISER'S BALKAN ARMY OFF FOR WEST

Paris, March 8.—A Havas dispatch from Salonica states that almost all the Austrian and German troops concentrated on the Balkan front have left for the western front.

Some Turkish regiments, the message says, have been sent from the Balkans to the Caucasus.

Germany Explains Submarine Warfare in New Note to U. S.

Washington, March 8.—Ambassador von Bernstorff this afternoon handed to Secretary of State Lansing, and afterward made public, Germany's latest proposition on the submarine issue. The statement was a review of the conditions which prompted Germany to begin submarine warfare against the allies' commerce, and pointed possible ways out of the difficulty which has reached a crisis with the United States. The full text of the Bernstorff memorandum follows:

RATIFIED LONDON DECREE.

The imperial German government, on account of the friendly relations which have always existed between the two great nations and earnestly desiring to continue them, wishes to explain the U-boat question once more to the American government.

At the outbreak of the war the German government, acting upon the suggestion of the United States, immediately expressed its readiness to ratify the declaration of London. At the time a German prize code had already been issued which was entirely—and without modification—based upon the rules of the declaration of London. Germany thereby proved her willingness to recognize fully the existing rules of international law, which ensure the freedom of the sea for the legitimate trade of neutral nations not only among themselves, but also with belligerent countries.

Great Britain, on the other hand, declined to ratify the declaration of London and, after the outbreak of the war, began to restrict the legitimate trade of the neutrals in order to hit Germany.

The contraband provisions were systematically extended on August 5, 20, September 21 and October 29, 1914.

On November 3, 1914, the order of the British Admiralty followed declaring the whole North Sea a war zone in which commercial shipping would be exposed to most serious danger from mines and men-of-war. Protests from neutrals were of no avail and from that time on the freedom of neutral commerce with Germany was practically destroyed.

FORCED TO U-BOAT WAR.

Under these circumstances Germany was compelled to resort, in February, 1915, to reprisals in order to fight her opponent's meas-

MORE HARVARD MEN MAY BE DROPPED

Following close upon the announcement of the summary dismissal of three of Harvard's star football players, the rumor was heard today in Cambridge that the crack battery of the baseball team, Captain "Eddie" Mahan and "Dick" Harte, may also come under the ban.

This, if true, would be a serious blow to the nine, and would mean that Harvard's football and baseball teams would have small chance of maintaining their supremacy.

The dismissal for failure to meet scholastic requirements of Captain-elect Joseph A. Gilman of next Fall's eleven, William J. Boles, veteran halfback, and Tom Enwright, star line plunger, was unexpected by the undergraduates, but little sympathy was extended to the men.

These men were aware last Fall

London, March 8.—Major-General von Lotterer, commanding the German artillery division at Verdun, is reported to have been killed in action.

BURKE NOW MASTER AT DEER ISLAND

Mayor Curley today approved the appointment of James H. Burke to be master at Deer Island. Mr. Burke is now deputy master. The Mayor promoted George Holden, assistant deputy master, to be deputy master. Mr. Burke succeeds Carlton L. Brett as master. He has been acting master since Brett's resignation several weeks ago.

BRITAIN TO YIELD, REPORT

London Assuracnes Looked for Regarding Armed Ships and Instructions for Defence Measures

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, March 8.—That an agreement will speedily be reached which will preserve all of the rights of the United States under international law and at the same time end the so-called submarine controversy was broadly hinted in official quarters today.

It was stated that Great Britain will, within the next few days, deliver to this government her promise that none of her vessels traversing the Atlantic will be armed. Only such vessels as traverse the Mediterranean will carry guns and they will be specifically pledged to use such armament only in defence.

At the same time Germany, through her ambassador, Count von Bernstorff, today placed before the United States a detailed explanation of the reasons which constrained her to order armed merchantmen sunk without warning.

This explanation, made at a conference with Secretary Lansing, reviewed the offers previously made by Germany to ratify the declaration of London and again charged specifically that the "illegal" British blockade by which an effort "is being made to starve Germany out" was entirely responsible for the use of the submarine against British vessels.

While making no promise, it was

GERMANS ADVANCE BY NEW VERDUN TACTICS

"West front—At 10 o'clock last night the French delivered a counter-attack against our position to the east of Maisons de Champagne. Hand grenade fighting still continues, but otherwise the attack was completely repulsed.

"In order to improve our new lines, which had been pushed forward on the right bank of the Meuse across the southern slopes of Cote de Talou, Cote de Poivre (Pepper Heights) and Douaumont, enemy positions, on the left bank of the Meuse on both sides of Forges Brook, below Bethincourt, were stormed over a width of thirty-six miles.

FRENCH GAIN IN CHAMPAGNE

Today's French communique announces the recapture of some trench sections in the Champagne region by French troops. These trenches had been taken by the Germans on Monday.

In the Verdun region, the communique states, there was no change in the situation during the night. The Germans continued their bombardment on the west bank of the Meuse, without attempting any infantry attacks.

The text of the communique follows:

"In the Champagne region to the east of Maisons de Champagne, we launched an attack, which again placed us in possession of trench sections captured by the enemy on March 6. In the course of this action we took eighty-five prisoners, of whom three were officers, and captured a machine gun.

"A counter attack launched by the enemy shortly afterwards against the positions which we held was repulsed.

"In the Argonne our artillery shelled roads in the region of Montfaucon on which automobile transports were reported.

BOMBARDMENT CONTINUES.

"In the region to the north of Verdun no change was reported during the night. The Germans have continued their bombardment of our front to the west of the Meuse without attempting any infantry attacks. Our batteries have responded energetically to the enemy's fire in that sector, as well as to the east of the Meuse, where the bombardment has been intermittent.

"In the Woevre region there was a very violent artillery duel. We bombarded Blanzee, Grimaucourt and the outskirts of Fresnes. An attack by the enemy upon our railways and the Manheulles road was shattered by our curtains of fire from the artillery and our infantry fire."

The latest news available shows that the French line is now resting on strong positions on Goose Hill, Cumiers Wood, Corbeaux Wood and Bethincourt, forming a salient on the German front.

It is expected that the French will make their first real stand upon the present line of defences.

While admitting the German gains so far, the French military critics express confidence that the Kaiser will not be able wholly to encircle Verdun.

POUNDING THEIR WAY.

The Germans are methodically trying to pound their way to victory with masses of heavy guns, but as they advance they find the French positions stronger and stronger and fresh artillery has been going to the front for a week to reinforce the French batteries.

It has been shown that the Germans cannot advance from St. Mihiel to close the hole in the ring, making it necessary for them to move southward along the west bank of the Meuse or in the Argonne if they are going to carry to a successful conclusion their enterprise of surrounding Verdun.

The total of the German advance on the west bank of the Meuse yesterday was not over 200 yards, according to dispatches from towns behind the front. Military men hold that the capture of Forges was without any importance for the place holds no strategic importance whatsoever. The military critic of the Echo De Paris, who is regarded as one of the soundest writers on war matters in France, says:

"The Germans can triumphantly announce that Forges has been taken, but what good will it do them? Forges is a tiny hamlet which, in times of peace, has a population of only 460 souls. It is by no means a military position of any value. The slight German advance in that region if not followed by a huge offensive is nothing more than an isolated hammer stroke. A terrible task confronts the Teutons if they want to bring up their front west of the Meuse on a line with their positions on the east bank, for they must dislodge the French from strong positions dominating Regneville, Goose Hill and Dead Man Hill—an operation comparative with the taking of Douaumont.

"It is noteworthy, however, that during the past few days the Crown Prince has been unable to mass troops for a huge offensive at any point. He has been content to launch small attacks on a narrow front, which, in spite of their fierceness, have been driven back by the French in most instances.

WAR SUMMARY

While the Verdun struggle rages with a continued ferocity that makes even General Sherman's short and ugly description of war seem weak and inadequate, the European dispatches hint at sudden naval possibilities.

Hints do not guarantee events, of course. Still, a hint from Switzerland a month ago of a big German movement was followed by the present Verdun drive.

Hence an interest attaching to a delayed Rome dispatch saying that twenty German dreadnaughts have left Kiel.

Coincident with the Rome story is a sharp warning given by Winston Churchill, former First Lord of the British Admiralty, to the House of Commons that Germany will never be content to let her fleet lie idle in the Kiel Canal and that England must beware.

The feat of the German sea-raider Moewe, in dodging England's boasted naval cordon, remains as an unpleasant naval surprise to England.

Churchill's warning has set London by the ears. Early dispatches today said that government newspapers accuse Churchill merely of playing politics to further his own ambitions. But opposition organs tell the government to heed the warning.

The dispatches added that an "anticipated clash" with a German fleet was discussed at today's meeting of the British War Council.

The South Pacific may contribute its naval bit, too, for cables from Honolulu report that an Australian cruiser and battle cruiser, said to be accompanied by two Japanese cruisers, are combing Pacific waters for a German raider. Mention of Jap cruisers adds extra interest to the report.

The Turkish War Office claims that two hostile cruisers in the Dardanelles have been hit by Turkish batteries, also that the British relief expedition to Kut El Amara has failed.

A German officer, made prisoner by the Russians, is quoted in cables from Petrograd as giving the following reason "why" for the German drive at Verdun:

"Verdun is an advanced point thrust into our flank. How could we attempt to march upon Paris from any other point, leaving this corner unflattened? As we advanced on Paris the position at Verdun would be left behind us instead of upon our flank."

The German prisoner in Petrograd is a long way from Verdun, but his explanation may interest the home strategists.

So far as the Verdun outcome itself goes, Paris dispatches today declared flatly that the Kaiser's plan was doomed to failure and that German efforts to batter a way through the French positions find these positions even stronger.

Meanwhile the German drive has increased to the west of Verdun and cannons roar unceasingly. One of the war correspondents figured, in his report today, that the Kaiser's generals are becoming more sparing of their troops as mere "cannon fodder" and are letting artillery pave the way.

PREPARE FOR CLASH OF FLEETS

By SYDNEY B. CAVE.

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, March 8.—Matters of vast importance with the British fleet and the anticipated clash with Germany's great warships in the North Sea were discussed today at a meeting of the War Council.

Lord Fisher, formerly First Lord, attended the session. It was the first time he had been called into a formal meeting of the council, but it was stated that the invitation sent him antedated the proposal made by Winston Churchill in the House of Commons yesterday that the famous sea warrior be given a high post in the government.

Churchill's warning that the Kaiser's fleet will make a dash is commented on at length by the London papers today. Those which have opposed the present government declare that the warning must be heeded, and that nothing be left undone to assure victory for England.

Government organs, on the contrary, assail Churchill bitterly, suggesting that he wishes to return to the cabinet, and that he is willing to wreck the government in order to satisfy personal ambitions.

They flatly deny Churchill's intimations that the Admiralty under the leadership of Balfour has neglected to take the necessary precautions against the German fleet.

CHURCHILL'S WARNING.

Churchill, just back from the trenches, in his speech in Commons, said:

> We must not assume that Germany will be content to allow her fleet to lie impotent and derided in the Kiel Canal. We must assume that something has happened in German naval yards and that Germany has completed all her program.

Lord Fisher was present during Mr. Churchill's speech.

As he rose to leave the Peer's gallery he was loudly cheered by the army and navy men in the House.

Mr. Churchill's speech followed a statement by Mr. Balfour in which the latter painted in bright colors the achievements of the navy. It had transported four million troops since the war began, said Mr. Balfour. Its personnel had been doubled and its weight increased 1,000,000 tons. Its air service had increased ten-fold.

The debate came upon the introduction of the navy estimates by Mr. Balfour, who said he only proposed giving a general impression of the course which the Admiralty was pursuing to carry on the responsibilities resting upon the Britist empire. The policy under his administration, he said, had been directly continuous on that of his predecessor.

Mr. Balfour continued:

While admitting the return of the raider Moewe to her home port, Mr. Balfour made the positive statement that "no German cruiser is now in a position to menace British commerce on any ocean in the world at this moment."

Mr. Churchill followed this hopeful summary, declared he had received from other sources "a less satisfactory account of British naval preparations than the statement by Mr. Balfour would have led one to suppose." He wished to place it on record, he said, that the present attitutde of pure strategic passivity would not have the attitude of his Admiralty board during the year 1916.

"STRIKE JARRING NOTE."

"I am sorry to strike a jarring note," said Mr. Churchill, "but it is not a note of censure, or reproach, or panic, though it is in some respects a warning.

"So long as Sir John Jellicoe is in command of the Grand Fleet we may rest assured that it will be manoeuvred in the presence of the enemey with the utmost professional skill.

"But there must be no unconscious relaxation of Admiralty effort. If a shortage of naval material should occur there would be no chance in the future for recovery.

"There should be no limit fixed by labor where the British fleet is concerned. The vital units of the fleet must be the first charge of our labor resources.

"The great German navy has been built under the special care of the Emperor, at vast expense and toil. Can we conceive that the German government will be content to allow this navy to remain in the Kiel Canal, if there is hope that it can in any way influence the struggle? We must assume that Germany has completed every vessel begun before the war. If ours are uncompleted, solid reasons must be given to justify the postponement or delay."

Mr. Churchill proceeded to criticise the air raid defences asking why it was not possible now, as at the beginning of the war, to raid Dusseldorf or even Cuxhaven.

He urged Mr. Balfour to "fortify himself and vitalize and animate the Admiralty by recalling Lord Fisher.

"The present lack of driving power and mental energy," he said, "must not be allowed to continue."

A Few Thoughts About Finding Economy Path in Pathfinder the Great

ECONOMY may depend primarily on how little money goes out. But eventually it depends on how much value comes in.

Take the matter of automobiles.

Pennyfoolish men invest in rattletrap cars which fairly wail forth the story of their "economy."

Poundwise men invest in cars which return full value from every whirl of silent wheels.

Poundwise men who attend the Boston Automobile Show this week are studying claims and achievements of the car most recently welcomed to New England—Pathfinder the Great.

They express real amazement over the fidelity with which this king of twelves harmonizes its claims and its achievements.

They acknowledge a surprising number of elemental factors spelling the good old word economy.

They acknowledge an equal number of reasons why the prices of these cars are justifiable—roadster $2,800, seven-passenger touring car $2,550, delivered at purchaser's garage right here in Boston.

As one of them wisely put it: "I know enough about outsides and insides of automobiles to justify the opinion that Pathfinders are being produced more for repute than for profit."

Hundreds of men and women visiting the Automobile Show this week have seen and tested these superlative cars.

If YOU have not done this we urge that you come and take a little JOURNEY along Economy Path in Pathfinder the Great.

BLAME PUT ON BOSTON BY SIEGEL

Rochester, N. Y., March 8.—Henry Siegel, who came here yesterday from Geneseo, is today on his way to Chicago, where he may remain permanently.

Siegel would not say he would assume the management of the Siegel-Cooper store in Chicago, but friends intimate that he was tendered the place just before his release from the Monroe County penitentiary.

Before leaving Siegel said:

> I am after big money. I want it to pay the people I owe. Why shouldn't I be able to make $10,000,000? I was worth half that amount a few years ago, and what was my experience then to what it is now?
>
> I don't expect to confine myself to the dry goods business; anything that pays big returns will serve. Business is a simple proposition. It is the same in every line of endeavor. There are only two items in business—income and expense.
>
> A merchant should own his place of business. I learned this from experience. I lost $1,500,000 on the building we put up in York. When our firm was prospering, it was a good investment. When we went to the wall it was sold for less than $1,000,000. There was business on the street then. Now it is a cemetery. The entire business section has changed.
>
> My fatal move was going to Boston. I lost $3,000,000 there. Upon the experience gained by that failure I expect to make a large amount in the near future.
>

TIE-UP IN PARK STREET SUBWAY

Traffic in the Park street subway was tied up today for more than forty minutes when the gear casing of an outward-bound Talbot avenue car fell from its place. The cars outward bound were diverted over a cross-over to the Pleasant street subway and then down Tremont to Berkeley to Boylston street. Passengers on inward-bound cars were transferred at Copley square station to the surface cars.

AN APPEAL

I'm only a cavalry charger,
And I'm dying as fast as I can
(For my body is riddled with bullets—
They've potted both me and my man);
And though I've no words to express it,
I'm trying this message to tell
To kind folks who work for the Red Cross—
Oh, please help the Blue one as well!

My master was one in a thousand,
And I loved him with all this poor heart
(For horses are built just like humans,
Be kind to them—they'll do their part);
So please send out help for our wounded,
And give us a word in your prayers;
This isn't so strange as you'd fancy—
The Russians do it in theirs.

I'm only a cavalry charger,
And my eyes are becoming quite dim
(I really don't mind though I'm "done for,"
So long as I'm going to HIM);
But first I would plead for my comrades,
Who're dying and suffering, too—
Oh, please help the poor wounded horses!
I'm sure that you would—if you knew.

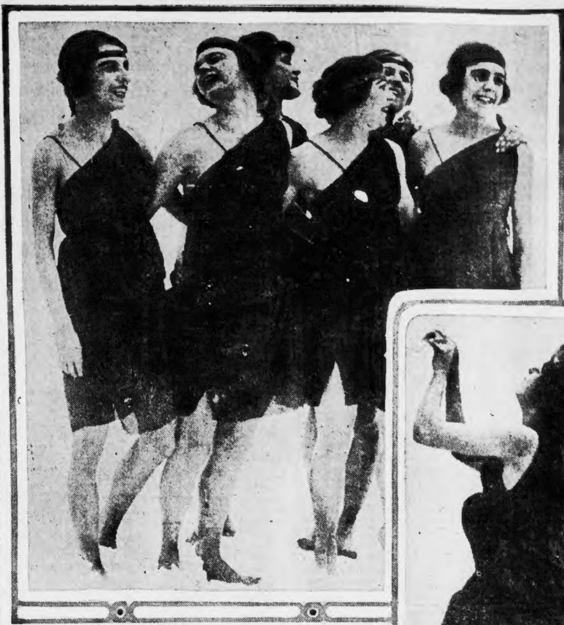
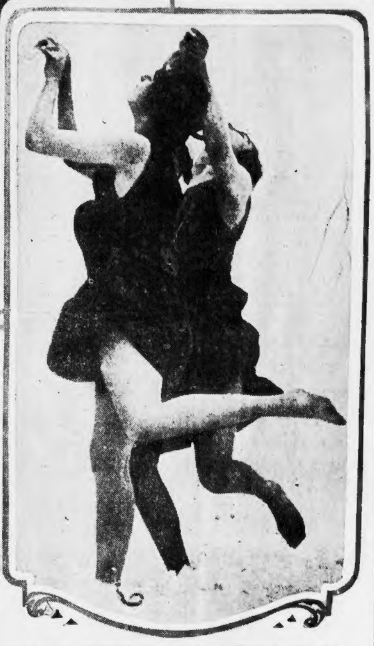
Mercy! Those Barefoot Girls in Flimsy Dress to Dance in Snow Here?





Los Angeles schoolgirls who gave Greek dances in snow at Central Park, New York, and who may give an exhibition on our Public Gardens. They are Misses Josephine McLean, Mirabelle Daniels, Hazel Chesley, Dulce Moore, Lois Marie File and Stelle Hanson, the picture below showing two of the girls in a special dance.

'Millionaires,' in Jail, Sued by Railroad

John T. and Herbert C. Locke, brothers, of Lowell, each serving a sentence of two years in the House of Correction, East Cambridge, for the larceny of money from the Boston & Maine road, by means of false pay checks, are being sued for $5,000 by the Boston & Maine officials. The company seeks to recover this amount, as it is claimed the Lockes have more than that amount in banks.

According to the police, the Lockes were known as the "millionaire kids," owned an auto and lived in luxury. It is claimed they would go from station to station of the Boston & Maine and cash pay checks for large amounts.

TAKEN FOR BURGLAR, CHILD OF 7 KILLED

Washington, Pa., March 8.—Mistaken for a burglar, Della Taylor, seven year old, was shot and killed by her foster father, Arthur Grey, early today. There had been a burglar scare in Zediker, where the family lived, and Grey slept with his rifle beside his bed. When Della, walking in her sleep, rattled at his door, he fired through the door, the bullet striking the girl in the head.

5 RIOTERS KILLED IN MADRID STRIKE

By International News Service.

Madrid, March 8.—Strike rioting broke out here last night and was still in progress today, with troops fighting the mobs. Up to the present five strikers have been killed and sixteen wounded. Six soldiers have also been injured.

Discussion of war, the Congressional situation and about everything else stopped short today in Boston when a bevy of six fair maids, averaging eighteen years, barefooted, barelegged, bare-headed—clad in fact only in short red Roman tunics—began a fascinating dance in the snow on the Boston Public Garden. The police, Mayor Curley, Censor Casey and a general mob raced to the scene, etc., etc.

The above really didn't happen in Boston—not yet.

But it did come to pass in Central Park, New York, and, according to dispatches today from Manhattan, the metropolis was still dizzy with mere recollection of it all. It is expected that the girls will come to Boston. Whether they will attempt here their New York performance remains to be seen.

NYMPHS FROM THE WEST.

They are dancing girls from Los Angeles, the six snow nymphs. Their very names are pleasing, thus: Dulce Moore, Lois Marie File, Stelle Hanson, Josephine McLean, Mirabelle Daniels and Hazel Chesley. They are known as the Morgan Dancers, from Marian Morgan who has charge of their surprising activities. An enterprising press agent is believed to have been responsible for the farefoot demonstration, with fell intent to make New York sit up and take notice. He succeeded admirably.

The girls were driven in taxicabs to Central Park, wearing street clothing over their tunics. They shed their garments, down to the tunics, in the taxis, and stepped out into the snow dressed—or undressed—for the dancing.

This was near the bronze monument to Daniel Webster. If such a snow dance is staged on Boston Public Garden it may be arranged in front of the statue to Charles Sumner on the Boylston street side. Or it might, even more appropriately, be tried near the marble Venus in the fountain.

CALL IT CLASSIC DANCING.

But this was in New York and right in front of the bronze Webster. The six girls, all well nourished, but nevertheless agile and graceful, danced, leaped, kicked and pirouetted. They called it interpreting classic dances. Spectators called it great.

A Central Park "cop" hurried thither. The alert press agent forestalled the official quiz, saying:

"It's for educational purposes, for a moving picture film entitled 'The Awakening of Spring.'"

The "cop" admitted the educational effect. He could see it himself.

They didn't dance a long time. The air was cold to the bare flesh. The snow was freezing to the bare ankles of the nymphs. The battery of snapshot and "movie" cameras bombarded the sextet incessantly. When enough pictures had been taken the girls shivered back to the taxis and vanished.

But in Boston—what?

CONVICT'S WIFE HUGS WHITMAN

Cleveland, March 8.—Before Governor Whitman of New York could gain an inkling of her purpose, Mrs. Anna Schmulovits threw her arms about his neck in the Statler Hotel. She also kissed his hand in making a plea for clemency for her husband, who has been in Sing Sing Prison since 1908 serving a twenty-year sentence for the murder of the "other woman."

MAY INDICT GIRL BRIDE TODAY

Fort Worth, Texas, March 8.—A Grand Jury report is looked for in the case of Katherine Harrison, the girl bride who confessed to shooting W. L. Warren.

That the report will be in the form of an indictment for first degree murder there is no ground for doubt. The county prosecutor has based his presentment of the affair on Mrs. Harrison's confession. It is not within the province of the Grand Jury to consider extenuating circumstances.

The nature of the testimony laid before the Grand Jurors is suggested by the continued absence from public gaze of Lois Guion, Mrs. Harrison's chum, who is understood to be in the custody of the county officers. It was Miss Guion who, constrained by the accusation against an innocent man, gave the first hint that Mrs. Harrison had shot Warren.

GIRL 'CHUM' WITNESS.

She has been called on to tell the Grand Jury what she knows of the case. Since then, for reasons best known to the county officers, she has been held strictly incommunicado.

The fact that even her sister has been prevented from seeing her has given rise to suspicion that Mrs. Harrison's quondam chum possesses information, not yet made public, of great value to the prosecution.

There will be a bona fide prosecution of Mrs. Harrison—the State's attorney's attitude leaves no room for that. Its outcome will depend largely on the still moot question of the self-confessed girl slayer's age at the time she was, as she alleges, wronged by her victim.

The only available data bearing on this point are the school records. These are now being searched.

If Mrs. Harrison can show she was a child of fourteen at the time of the alleged assault her early acquittal is a foregone conclusion, despite the cool deliberation of her act.

DISCREPANCIES IN STORY.

Although in her confession she assumed complete responsibility for the shooting, there has arisen an interesting question as to what her husband, Charles Harrison, Senator Culberson's nephew, was doing at the moment. In other words, the crime in all of its details has not been reconstructed to the complete satisfaction of the authorities.

Even admitting that Harrison was ignorant of his prospective bride's purpose, the county prosecutor remains unconvinced that he could not have interposed in time. This is one of the points that must be cleared up at the trial.

What Good Boy Needs a Home? Here's a Chance

Is there a boy in Boston who would like to be adopted?

Joseph E. King of No. 11 Eames street, Framingham, has written the AMERICAN asking help in finding such a boy.

The boy must be about fifteen years old, and would be a companion to Mr. King.

Mr. King's letter reads thus:

> Editor Boston AMERICAN:
>
> Do you know of any young fellow about fifteen or sixteen years old that I could get for a companion? I am willing to adopt him if necessary. I will give him a good education.
>
> I write to you as I know the AMERICAN is always first in helping anyone. I did not know but you knew of some poor boy that I could get. I prefer a Catholic if I could get one.

HELD ON CHARGE OF ATTEMPTED ARSON

Charged with attempting to set fire to a house in which many people, including eight children, were sleeping, and with having brass knuckles in his possession, Joseph Sirovik, twenty, of No. 76 Spencer avenue, today, in Chelsea district court, pleaded not guilty to the first charge and the case was continued to March 16. He was held in $2,500. He was found guilty on the second charge.

Sirovik is accused by John Dennie, who lives in the same house with Sirovik, with having set fire to a mattress in the cellar as a result of an argument. Dennie alleges that Sirovik started to run when the pair met on the cellar stairs. Dennie gave chase. His cries attracted a patrolman and Sirovik was arrested.

SEN. GREEN DENIES 'BRIBE'

James I. Green, State Senator from Charlestown, indignantly denied sending the telegram in which Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo charges he attempted to bribe the head of the Treasury Department into appointing John P. Green to the office of Deputy Surveyor of this port.

Senator Green intimated today that the telegram was a frame-up, sent to Secretary McAdoo by his enemies.

The two telegrams were published by Mr. McAdoo. One purports to come from Senator Green, reminding Mr. McAdoo that he has the right to re-establish the office that was abolished on the death of Major Edgerly, who held it for many years. This message reads:

> Charlestown, Mass., March 5, 1916.
> Hon. William G. McAdoo,
> Washington, D. C.
>
> As Secretary-Treasurer you have full power to create immediately deputy surveyorship Boston just abolished and promote my brother; or you can increase his salary to $6 per day, which is perfectly satisfactory. My conduct as delegate national convention will be governed by treatment accorded him. Wire my expense.
>
> (Signed)
> SENATOR JAMES I. GREEN.

DENIED RECEIVING REPLY.

Senator Green denied he had ever sent such a telegram. He had wired McAdoo, he admitted, about three weeks ago, merely asking the Secretary to promote his brother to the deputy surveyorship, or to a $6 a day job, but making no mention of his candidacy for delegate to the national convention. He also denied that he had ever received the answer sent to him. This second telegram read:

> Washington, D. C., March 6, 1916.
> Hon. James I. Green,
> Charlestown, Mass.
>
> Do you realize that your telegram of 5th instant places you in very awkward position? You practically ask me to bribe you to govern your conduct as a delegate to national convention by giving your brother position of Deputy Surveyor of Boston, which has been abolished because it is unnecessary, or to increase his salary to $6 per day. Your offence is a serious one, and deserves to be treated with the contempt I accord it. I shall not prostitute the public service as you propose, and you can act as you please at the national convention.
>
> (Signed)
> W. G. McADOO.

The Senator was much perturbed.

"Do you think for a moment," he inquired, "that I would be fool enough to write anything like that, and lay myself liable?"

HE ADMITS SENDING ONE WIRE.

"Then you didn't write that telegram to Secretary McAdoo?" pressed the inquirer.

"Of course I didn't," he answered.

"Do you think someone 'framed' you?" inquired one of the questioners.

"Well," replied the Senator, "that may be. Like every young fellow in politics, I have my enemies, and I never can tell what they'll do, but I would rather know more about the case before I make that statement."

CHANGES MADE IN CATHOLIC CLERGY

The following appointments and changes in the Catholic clergy have been made and will go into effect Monday. They will be announced officially in the Pilot of this week:

Rev. Thomas I. Coghlan, pastor of St. Joseph's, East Pepperell, to be pastor of Sacred Heart parish, Atlantic, in succession to the late Father Cuffe.

Rev. William J. Barry of St. Mary's, Cambridgeport, to be administrator of St. Joseph's parish, East Pepperell.

Rev. Bernard S. O'Kane, transferred from the parish of Our Lady of Grace, Chelsea, to St. Mary's Brookline.

Rev. Rudolph M. Tuscher of Immaculate Conception parish, Malden, transferred to St. Mary's, Cambridgeport.

Rev. Dominick F. Rock of the parish of St. John the Evangelist, Winthrop, transferred to the parish of Our Lady of Grace, Chelsea.

MORGENTHAU READY TO AID WILSON

Washington, March 8.—The belief prevailed in official circles today that Ambassador Henry Morgenthau will resign his post to serve President Wilson during the coming campaign.

Mr. Morgenthau, who came to Washington today, told the International News Service that if the White House decides he can be of more service to the President by remaining in this country he will resign his post.

FIN. COM. OPPOSES GATELEY AWARD

In a letter sent to members of the Legislature, the Boston Finance Commission opposes the petition to compel the city of Boston to pay an additional $15,300 to Mary M. Gateley for the taking of land on Albany street for sewer purposes. The commission asserts that Mrs. Gateley and the city reached an agreement in the courts under which she was to be paid $23,000 and the city was to be released from any liability under her suit.

Favors Civil Service Yard to Test Ability

"Familiarity with the particular work to be done ought to count a great deal in a civil service examination," said Commissioner Elmer L. Curtiss of the Massachusetts Civil Service Commission today at the hearing on the bill to consolidate the Civil Service Commission with the Commission on Economy and Efficiency.

Commissioner Curtiss supported the bill providing an experiment yard where applicants could demonstrate their ability. He would have pavers given an opportunity to pave a rod of street in such a yard and show just how they would do the work.

Regarding the extension of the civil service system to counties, Commissioner Curtiss said the success of the system in the State seemed to insure equal success in the counties. Anticipating objection from sheriffs in their efforts to save their deputies, he said he was sure that deputies would not come under the law if it were extended to counties.

Nurse Guarding Mother and Babe Dies a Martyr

Mrs. Mary E. Kilfoy, a nurse, is dead at her home on Central avenue in Waltham, a martyr to her sense of duty and her refusal to abandon a sick case on account of her own illness.

She was called yesterday to attend Mrs. James Mulvihill, wife of a Waltham policeman. It was a "baby" case.

The nurse was already suffering from the first stages of pneumonia. The physician advised her in the morning to return to her own home and rest, but she refused to leave until the confinement case was over.

In the late afternoon she went home and to bed and died four hours later of pneumonia.

Mrs. Mulvihill and the new baby, in case of whom the faithful nurse disregarded her own illness, were reported today as in continued good condition.

Take on Record Cargoes to Feed Allies' Armies

Two Boston cargo records were broken today when the British steamers Masaria and Essex Baron began loading 5,000 tons of flour and 100,000 bushels of oats respectively at Mystic docks.

The flour, which was brought to this port in five miles of freight cars, is going to Bordeaux, France, and is destined to be made into bread for the soldiers.

The Essex Baron, which is bound for St. Nazaire, France, also carries a record breaking cargo, which is probably the largest cargo of grain ever loaded. The oats are for horses in the military service.

IRISH FOLK MUSIC AT CONCERT TONIGHT

Irish folk music, with illustrations, will be included in the program arranged for this evening for the entertainment of the members of Rose Croix Council, K. of C., in Brunswick hall, Intercolonial building, Dudley street, Roxbury. Benedict FitzGerald, pianist, will have charge of this part of the exercises. Miss Lucille Campbell of Roxbury, soloist, will be heard in several classical numbers. Grand Knight William H. Keane, will preside.

PRISONER WOULD JOIN GERMAN ARMY

The Salem authorities showed their neutrality today, when they refused to heed the plea of Philip Kaplan, twenty-two, that he be allowed to enlist in the German army. Kaplan was arraigned before Judge Sears and held in $2,000 for the grand jury on the charge of breaking into a hardware store.

FITZ NOT IN RACE 'AS YET'

Former Mayor Fitzgerald today denied that, AS YET, he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator against former Governor Walsh. He declared that, before making any decision on the matter he would await the return of the former Governor, who is now on a tour of the Orient. Former Mayor Fitzgerald said:

"I have not made up my mind in regard to the United States senatorship. As a matter of courtesy to former Governor Walsh, whose name has been mentioned with mine, I will not make any announcement or do anything to secure support until he returns. I am grateful to His Honor for his proffer of support, which is gratuitous and therefore the more appreciated."

The former mayor's statement was brought out by the launching of a Fitzgerald senatorial boom by Mayor Curley, at the Tammany Club's annual banquet at the Quincy House.

Mayor Curley's declaration first caused the 700 assembled Tammanyites to emit one pardonable gasp of amazement. Once recovered from their surprise, however, the gathering greeted the announcement with cheers.

Curley broached the Fitzgerald boom in these words:

> Within the last month the breach has been sufficiently healed to permit the rewarding of an old worker in the ranks of Democracy by our helping to make John F. Fitzgerald a United States Senator.
>
> Acting in the best interests of the Democracy of the nation, the State and the city, I have reached this decision.
>
> Never before did I form a decision on a political matter of similar nature and equal importance without first considering the support of this organization, but I believe I will have your earnest and unanimous support when the right time arrives.

PHILOMATHEIA CLUB MEETS AT VENDOME

Mrs. Edwin A. Shuman addressed a gathering of 158 members of the Philomatheia Club in the Hotel Vendome about the good that could be done by Catholic women manifesting a direct interest in Boston College. The occasion also served as a reception to the Very Rev. Charles W. Lyons, S. J., president of Boston College. Mrs. Shuman paid a high tribute to the work of Father Lyons.

In responding Father Lyons referred to the nature of an education at Boston College and how its graduates were made into good citizens. He spoke highly of the cooperation of the Philomatheia Club. Postmaster Murray said State and Church are happily blended in this country and referred to the statues of Abraham Lincoln and Pere Marquette being placed side by side in Congressional Hall.

Mrs. Martha Moore Avery, one of the club's vice presidents, described the general outlines of Catholic education, with special reference to the courses of study in Boston College.

FOIL ANNEXING OF ROCKEFELLER LAND

Cleveland, March 8.—John D. Rockefeller, together with East Cleveland's poverty and the movement to annex the suburb to Cleveland, probably has defeated the proposal to annex the north half of Cleveland Heights village to East Cleveland, it became known today. Mr. Rockefeller wrote that he was "unalterably opposed" to any of his property now in Cleveland Heights being annexed to East Cleveland.

Big Sales at Boston's Great Motor Show Break All Previous Records

WOMEN BUYERS OF CARS VIE IN NUMBERS WITH HOST OF MEN PURCHASING AUTOS.

By J. C. KERRISON.

Big sales marked the third day of the Boston Automobile Show, and continued with the opening of the show today. Many of the sales were to out-of-town visitors to the exhibition and were for early shipments.

The sales so far have been far in advance of those of former auto show years for the opening days. All kinds of cars and trucks are numbered in the transactions.

Today there were again a multitude of out-of-town visitors to the exhibition. Many of them were dealers in smaller New England cities who are at the show to see the new models now being shown to the Boston public for the first time. There were also many out-of-town automobile owners present, some of them ordering new machines.

Prominent among the purchasers this year have been the women. Many of them have bought cars, and not a few are on the lists of prospective buyers, held by the different companies who are showing their products at the exhibit. The touring cars are quite popular with the women, although many of them seem to be in favor of the sedan and coupe types of motors.

ENTERTAINS GOVERNOR M'CALL.

Yesterday was Governor's Day at the show, and Governor and Mrs. McCall were the guests of honor for the afternoon and evening. They were entertained by the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association.

President John H. MacAlman of the association tendered the State's Chief Executive a dinner at the Hotel Lenox before the evening show, at which a number of the prominent automobile men were present. After the dinner the party went to Mechanics Building and were shown over the three big halls, which are filled to overflowing with exhibits.

Special musical programs were arranged, and many of the booths were especially decorated for the occasion. The Governor spoke highly of the machines he inspected and of the work of the Automobile Show in general in educating the people to the value of the automobile, both as a pleasure vehicle and for commercial purposes.

Aside from the automobile for pleasure purposes and the automobile trucks there are other exhibits in the big halls. Among them is a "preparedness" booth, in upper Paul Revere Hall, where a lieutenant of the United States navy and several petty officers are showing rapid-fire guns, torpedoes, signal flags and other interesting things used in the work of the navy. Near this exhibit is a moving picture booth occupied by a big film distributing company. Here the "movie" cameras and other accessories are shown to the visitors.

REPORT BIG SALES.

The accessory booths, of which there are many—lining the big balconies—are reporting big sales for the past three days of the show. Today many of these companies stated that they were practically doubling the sales made in previous Boston auto shows. The accessory dealers this year find that the new automobile headlights are among their best sellers.

Owing to the new law in this State which makes it a misdemeanor to have brilliant headlights, the different companies manufacturing the "dim" lights find that they have plenty of sales for their articles. The other accessory dealers, some with oil and grease products and other selling articles, from spark plugs to new motors, also report "big business."

The motorcycle and motor boat departments in the basement are also attracting large numbers to their exhibits. Several new ideas in motorcycle side-car construction are shown here. Noticeable among these is a side car, with two wheels, set directly in back of the rear wheel of the cycle. In this side-car there is room for two persons to sit comfortably, making the total capacity of these machines three persons. There are also several exhibits of motorcycle delivery trucks here.

There is but one exhibit of motor boats of the dory type at the present show. This exhibit takes in one end of the basement and several types are shown. The portable garages, both of wood and all steel construction, are attracting a deal of attention from owners of machines and from prospective buyers.

Motor Show Notes

More big men of the automobile industry have been arriving at the show during yesterday and today, many of them having missed the opening days on account of train delays. All are loud in the praise of this year's exhibition, and say that it has no rivals.

* * *

Otis Friend, George Hipple and Advertising Manager Pelton of the Mitchell Company arrived at the show yesterday, and were loud in their praise of the manner in which Fred Lucas of the Pope-Hartford Company has staged the Mitchell car. At one time they were inclined to question the feasibility of the Mitchell exhibit in the Paul Revere Hall, but when they saw the masterly work of Manager Lucas their doubt vanished instantly, and they did nothing but praise. They said they considered the framed Mitchell car the masterpiece of the season. It is a most novel display of a motor car. Accompanying these gentlemen was Carl H. Page, the man who has done so much to advance the Mitchell interests in the New York territory. J. W. Bate, the designer and builder of the Mitchell, is due to arrive this morning.

* * *

Paul Smith, first vice-president of the Chalmers Motor Car Company, was due to arrive today, and tomorrow he will meet the Chalmers dealers at a luncheon at the Hotel Lenox.

* * *

This evening the Overland dealers will enjoy a special banquet in their honor to be held at the Hotel Lenox.

* * *

At noon today Charles H Henshaw and Factory Representative Day of the Dodge Brothers Company will lunch at the Copley-Plaza, and the Maxwell men will enjoy a dinner at the Westminster.

* * *

General Superintendant of Agencies and Sales Manager J. R. Findlater of the Briscoe Comany is spending the week at the show talking Briscoe cars.

* * *

J. W. Grey of the Nicholas-Finn Company of Chicago is another man who arrived at the show yesterday and is preaching the merits of the Cole car.

* * *

An auto show stag will be held at Convention Hall on Thursday night, starting at 10 o'clock when a buffet luncheon will be served in the basement hall. This part of the entertainment will last to 11 o'clock and then the party will sojourn to Convention Hall proper. The stag is given under the joint auspices of the Bay State Automobile Association and the Boston Auto Show and is for all automobile men. Dr. A H. McIntosh is chairman of the committee in charge of the entertainment and stag, and his associates from the Bay State Automobile Association are Stanley Hall, A. F. Chandler and J. S. Spargo.

* * *

John Wetmore, the well-known New York newspaper man and one of the veterans of the automobile publicity end, was at the show yesterday and is loud in his praise of the exhibition. He was very much impressed with the beautiful decoration. "It's stupendous," said Wetmore. "That's just what it is. Stupendous." Wetmore never misses the Boston show and says it's an education and a treat to come here to attend it.

* * *

Manager Ross of the Fiat believes that he has the smartest line of cars in the building.

* * *

John M. Mansfield, general sales manager of the Dort from Flint, Mich., is at the show and is working every minute. He is a convincing salesman and has interested many well-known men in the car.

* * *

Frank N. Filling, Eastern representative of the Marion, is also here.

* * *

Police Inspectors Smith and Concannon are in daily attendance at the show and have been very zealous and watchful. In consequence the "light fingered gentry" are conspicuous by their absence.

* * *

Judge Thomas H. Connelly, of the Brighton District Court and former secretary to Former Governor David I. Walsh, paid particular attention to the "dimmers" on the lights, and is studying those on the market and how they work so that he may have a clear idea of the new law.

* * *

The atendance yesterday was remarkable considering the bad weather. It was a splendid tribute to the show and to the attractions of the auto.

* * *

Manager Bill Carrigan, who is an expert motorist, in company with his wife was a caller.

will be banquets galore dur- week.

Swander, district manager of Firestone Tire & Rubber Comarrived in Boston this morning. "trict managers" are a new dere with the Firestone Company. the Addition of these field men was necessitated by the rapid increase in the national demand for Firestone products. Mr. Swander was formerly New York manager of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company. While in Boston Mr. Swander will spend considerable time with T. J. Glenn, local Firestone manager, studying local conditions and exchanging ideas on 1916 service plans.

* * *

Studebaker dealers from all over New England were among the visitors at the automobile show yesterday, including H. L. Kelley of Burlington, Vt., S. E. Hinkley, Brockton, W. A. Sargent, Rockland, F. E. Hubbell, Manchester, N. H., L. D. Bartlett, South Tamworth, N. H., George C. Gammell, St. Johnsbury, Vt., A. W. Horton, Portsmouth, N. H.; W. G. Ballem, White River Junction, Vt., A. L. The announcement of the complete line of Jeffery trucks by C. P. Rockwell, the New England Jeffery distributor, is accompanied by an interesting exhibit at Mechanics Hall, including the Jeffery Quad, the truck that drives, brakes and steers on all four wheels, and the Jeffery rapid service wagon, a fast light weight truck of three-quarter-ton capacity. Lack of space at the exhibit, prevented the showing of the ton and a half Jeffery All-Purpose Truck, but those who are interested will find it on display at the Rockwell show rooms, No. 640 Commonwealth avenue.

Aluminum alloy pistons are making their appearance in the construction of automobile motors. The latest concern to adopt the aluminum piston is the King Motor Car Company of Detroit, who are employing this material in the new eight-cylinder King just announced. That aluminum pistons will come into universal use in the manufacture of automobile motors is not denied by engineers who are following motor car progression. The one drawback at the present time has been the question of getting aluminum in quantities. It has been known for some time that the King Motor Car Company has had a big supply of aluminum stored away in Detroit. Although offered exorbitant prices by other manufacturers for this aluminum they refuse to part with it.

HAIR COMING OUT?

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it into the scalp. After a few applications the hair stops coming out and you can't find any dandruff. —Advertisement.

CHILDREN HATE PILLS, CALOMEL AND CASTOR OIL

Give Fruit Laxative when cross, bilious, feverish or constipated.

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; and it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." —Advertisement.

Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox's Poem in "King Albert's Book"

BELGIUM

Ruined? Destroyed? Ah, no; though blood in rivers ran Down all her ancient streets; though treasures manifold,
Love-wrought, time-mellowed and beyond the price of gold
Are lost, yet Belgium's star shines still in God's vast plan.
Rarely have kings been great since kingdoms first began;
Rarely have great kings been great men, when all was told;
But, by the lighted torch in mailed hands, behold
Immortal Belgium's immortal king, and man.

Baby Week Guns Are Turned Against Evil Effects of Liquor in the Family

"Baby Week" made a drive against the forces of intoxicating liquor today.

Among the different lectures on behalf of babyhood, given at department stores and other places today, was one on the suggestive subject of "Drink on the Trail of the Child." This topic was handled in the morning lecture session at the store of William Filene's Sons' Company by Miss C. Stoddard. She is secretary of the Scientific Temperance Federation.

Mothers and others who gathered there heard Miss Stoddard describe recent experiments upon animals, tending to show that alcohol directly injures offspring, doubles the death rate and affects animal posterity even to the fourth generation.

FIGURES TELL STORY.

Miss Stoddard quoted statistics to show that mothers and fathers who drink lose their children in a ratio, compared with parents who are temperate, that ranges from forty to fifty per cent. higher.

"In Bavaria, Germany," she said, "where more beer is drunk than anywhere else in Germany, the death rate among babies is 193 for every 1,000 births.

"Before the government in Norway took up the liquor problem and abolished private distilleries 300 babies out of every 1,000 born died. Today the death rate is greatly reduced.

"In New Zealand, where but eight gallons of liquor are used per capita, but 50 out of every 1,000 babies die. The per capita consumption for the United States is now about 19 gallons and in Massachusetts the death rate is twice as high as in New Zealand.

"The liquor habit in all probability impairs the mother's ability to nurse her baby. Experiments made in Switzerland showed a large percentage of mothers who used liquor unable to nurse their infants, and the death rate was correspondingly high."

THE BABY'S SIGNALS.

Mrs. Edith Hale Swift, medical examiner at Wellesley College and chief of the medical service of the New England Hospital for women and children, spoke in the morning at the Filene store on "Feeding and Nursing Problems." She asked the mothers to put themselves in the baby's place and to try to realize the difficulties the infant has in signalling to those about him in regard to his troubles.

Mrs. Swift said, in part:

"A baby has but one method of signalling, often misunderstood. The usual idea is that a baby's cry means hunger, when it may mean any one of a dozen ailments. The crying baby may be trying to say: 'Why don't they open the window and give me a little fresh air, put out the light and leave me alone? Why doesn't father stop smoking and sister cease practicing and let me go to sleep?'"

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES.

Dr. Agnes Victor began the afternoon session at the Filene store with a tal kon the meaning of "Baby Week." Dr. Edwin H. Plane followed, speaking on "Contagious Diseases."

Miss Greta Maby, R. N., outlined a baby day, as it should be before the morning gathering at the Jordan Marsh Company's store. Her topic was "The Importance of a Well Regulated Day for the Baby." She said in part:

"Baby's day begins at 6 a. m. Then attend to the feeding. If it is a bottle baby, be sure to have the milk properly heated. You can test this by allowing a few drops of milk to fall upon your hand. Get, above everything else, a thermometer. Let baby rest after feeding and talk to himself. At 8:30 a. m. there is another feeding, with bathing and other essential matters. At 11 a. m. there is feeding again with preparations to take baby out doors, or if this is not possible, give the baby fresh air in the nursery with windows open. After fifteen to twenty minutes outdoors or in fresh air, prepare baby for its sleep. This will be from 11:20 a. m. to 1 p. m. You can put baby in its bed with the bottle in a "cozey" which will keep the bottle warm.

"The order after this is: 1 to 3 p. m., let baby play. Take baby in your arms and let it notice objects in the room, prepare things for the next day; 3 to 4 p. m., another feeding with some play; 4.45 to 5.15 p. m., undress baby and prepare for bed; 5.15 to 6.30 p. m., put baby into bed; let baby lie on stomach before going to sleep; at 6.30 p. m., another feeding and then sleep till 10 p. m., when another feeding."

DON'T "CHURN" BABIES.

Dr. Laura M. Hughes, the second speaker of the morning at the Jordan Marsh Company's store, warned mothers against "churning" babies. She said:

"Many mothers keep up a continued churning of their babies, as if they were to be turned into cheese. This may be a crude way of putting it, but it means that a baby continually in motion is a baby that it is hard to get into a restful state."

Other events on the "Baby Week" calendar for today and this evening included the following:

Lorimer Hall—Tremont Temple, evening, Dr. John Lovett Morse, "The Care and Feeding of Young Children"; illustrated lecture on "Child Welfare" by Massachusetts Nursing Association.

Dorchester, 3 p. m. — Mothers' and Homemakers' Club of the Dorchester School Centre, illustrated lecture, High School.

Cambridge—9:30-11 a. m., East End Christian Union, exhibit; 8 p. m., children's play; 2 p. m., Sleeper School, speaker, Dr. Hollis L. Seavey; 2:30 p. m., Lowell School, Dr. Joseph W. Wadden; 2:30 p. m., Kelley School, illustrated lecture, Dr. F. M. B. Cady; 3 p. m., Ellis School, Dr. M. J. English; 3 p. m., Margaret Fuller House, exhibit and mothers' meeting, Dr. Arthur B. Emmons, 2d; 3-5 p. m., Neighborhood House, baby clinic, Dr. A. Carleton Potter, Dr. John E. Dwyer, Jr., and Dr. Arthur B. Emmons, 2d; 8 p. m., Phillips Brooks House, address by Mrs. Max West, Children's Bureau, Washington, D. C.; 8 p. m., Mifflin Hall, Social Union, illustrated lecture, under the auspices of Rush M. E. Church, speaker, Dr. C. H. Thomas.

A Woman Going to California Alone or With Children

Every woman, I don't care how competent and independent she is, feels a little more at ease, when traveling alone, or with children, if she can rely on a responsible official, paid to look after her comfort and convenience.

That's a special feature of our "Personally Conducted" Parties to California.

Join one. It's the best way to travel, especially for women if comfort, interest, safety and very moderate cost are to be taken into account.

The cost of it all is surprisingly low.

If you will write, or drop in at the office, and see me, I will be glad to explain every detail of the famous "Personally Conducted" Parties.

Pastors for Better Baby' Scenario Prize

Much interest has been shown in the Motion Picture Scenario Contest which is being conducted as a feature of "Baby Week," under the auspices of the AMERICAN.

A prize of $100 has been donated by Louis Agassiz Archer, the well-known philantrophist of Lynn, for a scenario that will most graphically and accurately depict the contrast between babies properly reared and babies brought up under improper conditions.

The contest affords an opportunity to help in the better babies crusade by producing a plot which will serve to illustrate the keynote of the movement. Only clergymen can compete, but there is no restriction as to residence or denomination.

Manuscripts must be submitted by midnight of March 31. They must be sent to the Scenario Contest Editor, Boston AMERICAN, No. 80 Summer street, Boston. The AMERICAN reserves the right to publish these manuscripts and will return them to the authors.

Experience in scenario writing is not necessary. Originaltiy is the only thing required and only original ideas may win the prize of $100. Make the plot direct and convincing.

An Easy Way To Get Fat And Be Strong

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on drugging their stomach or stuffing it with greasy foods; rubbing on useless "flesh creams," or following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes untouched. You cannot get fat until your digestive tract assimilates the food you eat.

There is a preparation known to reliable druggists almost everywhere which seemingly embodies the missing elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich, fat-laden blood. This modern treatment is called Sargol and has been termed the greatest of flesh-builders. Sargol aims through regenerative, reconstructive powers to coax the stomach and intestines to literally soak up the fattening elements of your food and pass them into the blood, where they are carried to the starved, broken-down cells and tissues of your body. You can readily picture what result this amazing transformation should produce, as with increased weight the cheeks fill out, hollows about neck, shoulders and bust disappear, and from 10 to 20 pounds of solid, healthy flesh is added to the body. Sargol is absolutely harmless, inexpensive, efficient. Leading druggists of this vicinity have it and will refund your money if you are not satisfied, as per the guarantee found in every package.

NOTE:—Sargol is recommended only as a flesh builder, and while excellent results in cases of nervous indigestion, etc., have been reported, care should be taken about using it unless a gain of weight is desired.

OUCH! LAME BACK. RUB LUMBAGO OR BACKACHE AWAY

Rub pain right out with small trial bottle of old "St. Jacob's Oil."

Kidneys cause Backache? No! They have no nerves, therefore cannot cause pain. Listen! Your backache is caused by lumbago, sciatica or a strain, and the quickest relief is soothing, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil." Rub it right on your painful back, and instantly the soreness, stiffness and lameness disappear. Don't stay crippled! Get a small trial bottle of "St. Jacob's Oil" from your druggist and limber up. A moment after it is applied you'll wonder what became of the backache or lumbago pain.

Rub old, honest "St. Jacob's Oil" whenever you have sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism or sprains, as it is absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.—Advertisement.

Mrs. Earl Williams Smith, vice-president of the Massachusetts Branch of the National Congress of Mothers, and chairman of the Baby Week for the Pierian Club of Newtonville, tells in the following article for the AMERICAN the rules which she put to practical test in bringing up her own babies.

According to Mrs. Smith, just a few practical rules for the different periods of childhood will save the baby. Mothers will also be happy in seeing their little ones grow rosy-cheeked.

By MRS. EARL WILLIAMS SMITH.

First of all I want to say a word of caution about the giving of water to baby. Give water between meals and not at bedtime. Boil the water and cool near ice. One glass of water may be taken with meals by the older children.

Above everything else, mothers, don't give fried food of any kind to baby, and none of the following: tea, coffee, pork, greasy foods or gravies, sweets, hot bread or rolls, pie, bananas, cucumbers, corn, spirituous drinks, and, above everything else, milk that is not pure or clean or sweet.

I think Dr. Harvey W. Wiley says children under five should have no candy. This is a good rule to follow.

For the convenience of mothers I have had the different periods of diet divided, with suggestions for every period. A mother can follow this outline, and I am sure, from my own practical experience, Baby will be greatly benefited.

When it is necessary to discontinue breast feeding at the ninth month or later, if in the summer months, baby should be placed on wholesome cow's milk (preferably pasteurized or brought to a boil in hot weather).

Twenty-four to thirty-two ounces (one quart) is the most required—it need not be diluted. Five feedings will be sufficient.

Strong and vigorous infants will later be allowed a bread pap (stale bread boiled in milk), or farina, made with half milk and water.

Diet for the various periods follows:

FROM 12TH TO 18TH MONTH.

BREAKFAST.

1—Juice of a sweet orange or pulp of six stewed prunes, or one ounce pineapple juice.
2—Eight ounces milk with either zwieback or toasted biscuits or stale toasted bread.
Note—Fruit must be given either one-half hour before or one-half hour after milk.

FORENOON MEAL.

Milk alone or with zwieback.

NOON MEAL.

1—Six ounces soup or three ounces beef juice.
Note—Soup may be made of chicken, beef or mutton.
2—Stale bread may be added to the above.
3—Milk toast or bread pap.

AFTERNOON MEAL.

Milk or toasted bread or zwieback.

EVENING MEAL.

1—Four ounces thick gruel mixed with four ounces top half milk (top sixteen ounces from a quart bottle) with zwieback.
Note—Gruel may be made of oatmeal, farina, barley, hominy, wheatina or rice.
2—Apple sauce or prune jelly.
Total milk in twenty-four hours, one to one and a quarter quarts.
Note—Eight ounces is equal to a half pint.

FROM 18TH TO 24TH MONTH.

BREAKFAST.

1—Juice of sweet orange or pulp of six stewed prunes or pineapple juice (two to three tablespoonfuls).
2—Cereal (such as cream of wheat, oatmeal, farina, hominy grits well cooked and served with top milk (top sixteen ounces), may be slightly sweetened, or butter or salt added.
3—Glass of milk and stale bread and butter.

FORENOON.

Milk with toasted biscuits, zwieback and butter.

DINNER.

1—Broth or soup made of beef, mutton or chicken; may be thickened with peas, farina, sago or rice, may take beef juice with stale bread broken into it, or clear vegetable soup with yolk or egg in it.
2—Soft cooked egg (boiled, coddled, shirred, poached).
3—Glass of milk or milk toast.
4—Dessert: apple sauce, baked apple, prune pulp, lady fingers, graham crackers, rice, bread, tapioca, custard, blanc mange, puddings, baked custard, junket or rice with top milk and little sugar.

SUPPER.

Milk (cold or warm), custard or prune pulp or apple (baked or in sauce), or rice or stewed fruit, zwieback or bread or crackers.

FROM TWO TO THREE YEARS.

BREAKFAST.

1—Juice of one sweet orange, pulp of six stewed prunes, pineapple juice (one ounce), a baked apple or apple sauce.
2—A cereal such as oatmeal, farina, cream of wheat, hominy, corn meal or rice slightly sweetened or buttered, as preferred, with the addition of top milk (top sixteen ounces), or a soft boiled or poached egg with stale bread or toast.
3—A glass of milk.

DINNER.

1—Broth or soup made of chicken, beef or mutton, thickened with arrowroot, split peas or rice, with the addition of the yolk of an egg or toast squares.
2—Scraped beef, white meat of chicken, broiled fish, as halibut (two ounces), or two slices of broiled crisp bacon.
3—Mashed or baked potatoes, macaroni, peas, spinach, carrots, beets, squash or cauliflower.
4—A glass of milk, with educator or graham crackers, or stale bread buttered.
5—Dessert: Apple sauce, baked apple, rice, junket, custard.

SUPPER.

1—Stewed fruit, a cereal, or egg (if not taken for breakfast), bread and milk or custard, cup of warm milk or cocoa, crackers or zwieback. Graham crackers or stale graham bread, if constipated.

FROM THREE TO SIX YEARS.

BREAKFAST.

1—Fruits: oranges, apples, pears or stewed prunes.
2—Cereal or eggs (not both), oatmeal, hominy, corn meal, rice and wheat preparations, well cooked and salted, with thin cream and sugar or butter and salt.
3—Eggs, soft boiled, poached, omelette, scrambled.
4—Milk or cocoa to drink; stale bread and butter.

DINNER.

1—Soups, beef, chicken or mutton.
2—Meat, chicken, rare beefsteak, roast beef, fish or lamb chop.
3—Vegetables, spinach, carrots, string beans, peas, cauliflower tops, mashed or baked potatoes, beets, lettuce (with [illegible]), macaroni, spaghetti.
4—Bread and butter [illegible].
5—Dessert: custard, rice or bread pudding, tapioca, chocolate pudding, [illegible], cornstarch pudding, stewed prunes or baked apple.
6—Milk.

SUPPER.

1—Milk toast or a thick soup, as pea or cream of celery, or a cereal and thin cream, stewed fruit or a custard or a [illegible] pudding, [illegible].
2—Bread and butter.

In all these lists I have given a variety of foods to choose from. In many instances a mother may not be able to follow in every particular the menus given, but if she only chooses out of every period the food within her means she will find the suggestions helpful.

We mothers must give our help and experience to one another. There is so much advice needed by those who cannot pay for advice, and this is one way to provide mothers with such expert opinions on food values which will be invaluable to every mother, whether rich or poor.

PARTY LINES UNDRAWN IN BIG HOUSE BATTLE

accepted in official circles that Germany would willingly refrain from using submarines against anything but warships if England would modify her blockade to follow the lines of the declaration of London.

WAITED FOR CONGRESS.

It is understood the British offer not to arm/any vessels in the Atlantic trade would have been presented before now, but was withheld until after the President had won his fight for non-interference by Congress.

Officials look for its receipt speedily, and it was believed that it would be made the basis for a renewal on the part of the United States of its efforts to secure a modus vivendi between the warring nations for the "freedom of the seas" that would have an excellent chance of success.

Until it actually is received, however, officials say they could not discuss it.

The Ambassador was with Secretary Lansing for less than five minutes. On leaving he said that he believed the communication would make plain just exactly what Germany planned to do. He said that he had asked Secretary Lansing for permission to make the document public, and, that having been granted, he would do so shortly.

"This communication," the Ambassador explained, "is intended to set forth the German position in the armed merchantman controversy. It is in no sense a new order or orders, but is simply an amplification of the orders that went into effect on the first of this month."

Meanwhile administration officials were well pleased today over what was termed "President Wilson's personal victory" in the House.

It is expected that from time to time there will be renewed discussion of the international situation in both Houses, but leaders believed there is no chance of the situation becoming acute.

There will be as many constructions placed on the action of the House of Representatives as there were conflicting factions in the House and conflicting emotions in the minds of the Representatives taking part in the conflict.

It will be claimed on behalf of the administration that its friends won a victory, that the policy of warning American citizens against taking passage on belligerent armed ships, which a week ago Speaker Clark thought would be adopted by two to one, has in fact been beaten by almost two to one, that the President has once more demonstrated his mastery of Congress and has received a vote of confidence from his party.

But against this will be urged, and justly, that the whole procedure in the House was one of evasion.

It was intended to, and did, save Democratic Congressmen the embarrassing alternative of so voting as to offend the President or so voting as to offend a great part of their constituents. It was designed to leave the Congressman with a constituency averse to war on this issue opportunity to assure his constituents that he was eager to vote for resolutions of warning, but was denied an opportunity by the form in which the question was brought before the House.

To attain this happy non-committal state ,it was necessary to avoid the direct action urged by the President in his letter to Mr. Pou, and that denial was made effectively.

SITUATION IN BRIEF.

Representative Meeker of Missouri put the situation bluntly when he said:

> The President either wants a vote on this or he does not. I want a vote. Eighty-five per cent. of the men who have talked have said they were in favor of the warning. Do you presume Germany will not hear that? Do you think your talk will not go there, as well as the report of your vote. You talk one way, and then propose to table the resolution in order to duck and say it never came to a show-down.
>
> Now, I am not pro-German or pro-ally, but I am pro-United States and pro-horse sense.
>
> Talk about standing by the President! Every speech you have made has undermined him. By your words you are condemned out of your own mouths as to what you really believe and are trying to make a play here solely for the purpose of saying that he was vindicated. How can he be vindicated? If he wants the opinion, let him have it. If he does not, stand up and say so like men, instead of coming here and talking about patriotism.

This taunt was echoed by Representative Len Root, who declared:

> Any man who really believes in a resolution of warning and votes for the previous question on this resolution is subject to the charge of cowardice. By so voting, he cuts off opportunity for the offering of a substitute resolutions or amendments.

Representative Mann, outlining the form in which a resolution of warning would be presented should the House refuse to order the previous question and throw the McLemore resolution open to amendment, said:

> Let us be fair to the President, to ourselves and to the country by meeting the issue and expressing the opinion which we have and thereby prevent war, which we all hope will not come.

WARNING FAVORED.

And Mr. Fitzgerald of New York, one of the few Democrats not in complete accord with the administration who secured an opportunity to be heard, said:

> I desire to vote for a resolution which expresses the sentiment of this House that Americans should refrain from traveling upon armed merchant ships of belligerents. This is the first rule ever brought into this House to give the House an opportunity to express its conviction.
>
> I shall vote against laying the McLemore resolution on the table, because I know that under this rule, if that motion fails, full opportunity will be given the members of the House to go upon record on a resolution to warn Americans against traveling upon armed merchant ships of belligerents.

But neither Mr. Fitzgerald, Mr. Mann or any other member of the House had any opportunity to vote upon such a resolution, because the poison gases of the powers in control stifled every effort to get any such resolution before the House. As in the Senate last week, so in the House, the perfected parliamentary gag was applied with a thoroughness which must have greatly edified the author of "The New Freedom," watching events from the other end of Pennsylvania avenue.

It was in time granted by the Republican leader, Mr. Cooper, that Representative Decker of Missouri, a young Democrat with the courage of his convictions, and with the oratorical ability to express them, electrified the House with his words of protest, beginning:

STANDS BY PEOPLE.

> The issue is not: "Shall we stand by the President?" The issue in Germany was: "Shall we stand by the Kaiser?" The issue in England was: "Shall we stand by the King?" The issue in Russia was: "Shall we stand by the Czar?" The people there did not know why they were called upon to die.
>
> This a republican government, thank God. If war is declared, we will stand by the President, but now the issue is: "Shall we stand by the people of the U. S. And, in order to prevent war, regulate the conduct of a few Americans who wish to travel on armed merchant ships?"

It was clearly discernible to observers that the Democratic side sat sullen and shamefaced through much of the debate. More applause on that side greeted Mr. Cooper, in charge of the Republican fight, when he closed his efforts for the day with a masterly speech supporting Mr. Flood in his labored effort to uphold a cause which only ten days before he had condemned.

The complaint of one Republican speaker that he could not stand by the President unless the President would stand still met with lively applause from among the Democrats. A week ago they were, at the presidential order, diligently holding the lid down on discussion of foreign affairs to find later that he really wanted full discussion and action and finally to be told by the leaders that he wanted neither discussion nor action.

And after the final vote as they dispersed feeling that "one more such victory and we are undone," they read in the papers that two distinguished Democratic Representatives, General Isaac R. Sherwood of Ohio and Robert U. Page of North Carolina, brother of the ambassador to London, had notified their constituents that they could no longer hold office as party colleagues of Woodrow Wilson.

HOUSE VOTE ON THREE ROLL CALLS

HOW the House voted on the three roll calls deciding the fate of the warning McLemore resolution is shown by the following:

	For Wilson	Against Wilson
On previous question, to close debate.....	256	160
On adoption of rule governing day's debate	271	138
On tabling the McLemore resolution.....	276	142

With Wilson were 182 Democrats, 93 Republicans and one Progressive.

Against Wilson were 102 Republicans, 33 Democrats, five Progressives, one Independent and one Socialist.

Where Billie Burke is Lovely in Pajamas!

In "Peggy," the first film play of Billie Burke, the Triangle Film Corporation is keeping up the furious quality pace it set last autumn.

And quality, as TRIANGLE understands the word, means nothing technical; it means charm—the indefinable something that makes you glad you went.

Sometimes it is the wonder of photography. Sometimes the tense interest of an unusual story.

Again—great pictures of great scenes, where thousands of men and horses play on a stage that covers miles of mountain and plain.

In "Peggy," "quality" is the charm of Billie Burke herself—

Whether bounding gaily about her bedroom in pajamas—or shocking Sunday Scotland in a rakish white speedster—or acting princess in a fairy story for the kiddles.

Go and see "Peggy," and take the youngsters, and your sweetheart—whether she's your wife yet or not.

"Peggy" is only one TRIANGLE play.

There are two new ones, and two new TRIANGLE-KEYSTONE comedies every week.

And until all tastes are the same, you will like some better than others.

So far, most people seem to like most of them—

Which is, after all, the great test.

All TRIANGLE plays are produced under the supervision of one of the very great directors—Griffith, Ince, or Sennett.

In each you will find at least one very lovely woman star.

BRANDEIS HEARINGS ARE ENDED

By International News Service.

Washington, March 8.—Public hearings before the Senate judiciary subcommittee on the fitness of Louis D. Brandeis to be an associate justice of the Supreme Court came to an end today. They have been in progress a month. The sub-committee will now hold executive sessions to prepare its report to the Judiciary Committee proper.

E. F. McClennen, partner of Mr. Brandeis, resumed the stand today and was the final witness.

Austen G. Fox, attorney for the Boston protestants, conducting the cross-examination, brought out the fact that the firm of Brandeis, Dunbar & Nutter received in one way or another $47,957 from the Lennox property. This was divided as follows:

Mr. Nutter received as assignee for the property $14,500; as trustee $2,852. These fees went to the firm. In addition the firm received as counsel for the assignee $9,500; as one of the counsel for the trustee $12,000; and for clerical service $5,105. No fees were received from Weil, Farrell & Co. in connection with the Lennox case.

This testimony, taken in conjunction with that of Sherman L. Whipple, appeared to make a pronounced impression. Mr. Whipple said he suggested to Mr. Brandeis when the Lennox litigation was in progress that by deserting Lennox and following the plan of assigning the property to a trustee for the benefit of the creditors, he was laying himself open to the criticism that he would be abandoning a doubtful client to "follow the property" whence he would receive larger remuneration.

While few doubt ultimate favorable action by the Senate, it is probable that red tape will delay the confirmation of Mr. Brandeis for some time.

Rotterdam, March 8. — Eugene Smith of Springfield, Mass., has arrived here with a party of British subjects released from the German interment camp at Ruhleben, Germany. Smith was imprisoned six months.

Springfield, March 8.—There are two Eugene Smiths in Springfield, neither of whom is or has been in Germany. The steamship agencies here do not recall having sold transportation to any Eugene Smith.

BAY STATE HEARING PUT OVER TO APRIL 17

The Public Service Commission today resumed its hearing on the petition of the Bay State to be allowed to charge a six-cent fare, and within an hour decided to postpone the hearing until April 17.

Most of the time was spent in arranging new hours for the hearing. It was finally agreed that the hearing would begin at 9:30 and close at 1:30.

At the next sitting remonstrants will be heard, and several of the Bay State's witnesses will be cross-examined.

KEEP "WAR RABIES" OUT, SAYS BRYAN

Columbus, O., March 8.—William Jennings Bryan, in a speech here, opposing the Wilson preparedness campaign, said:

"Let the dogs of war fight, but keep the rabies out of America."

GERMANY AGAIN EXPLAINS HER U-BOAT WAR

ures, which were absolutely contrary to international law. She chose for this purpose a new weapon, the use of which had not been regulated by international law, and in doing so could and did not violate any existing rules, but only took into account the peculiarity of this new weapon, the submarine boat.

The use of the submarine naturally necessitated a restriction of the free movements of neutrals and constituted a danger for them which Germany intended to ward off by a special warning analogous to the warning England had given regarding the North Sea.

As both belligerents—Germany in her note of February 17 and Great Britain in those of February 18 and 20, 1915—claimed that their proceeding was only enacted in retaliation for the violation of international law by their opponents, the American government approached both parties for the purpose of trying to re-establish international law as it had been in force before the war.

ENGLAND DECLINED.

Germany was asked to adapt the use of her new weapon to the rules which had been existing for the former naval weapons and England not to interfere with the food supplies intended for the non-combatant German population and to admit their distribution under American supervision.

Germany, on March 1, 1915, declared her willingness to comply with the proposal of the American government, whilst England, on the other hand, declined to do so.

By the Order in Council of March 11, 1915, Great Britain abolished even what had remained of the freedom of neutral trade with Germany and her neutral neighbors. England's object was to starve Germany into submission by these illegal means.

Germany, after neutral citizens had lost their lives against the wish and intention, nevertheless in the further course of the war complied with the wishes of the American government regarding the use of her submarines. The rights of neutrals regarding legal trading were, in fact, nowhere limited by Germany.

CONTINUED TO ARM SHIPS.

Then England made it impossible for submarines to conform with the old rules of international law by arming nearly all merchantmen and by ordering the use of guns on merchant vessels for attack.

Photographic reproductions of those instruments have been transmitted to neutral governments with the memorandum of the German government of February 8, 1916. These orders are obviously in contradiction with the note delivered by the British ambassador in Washington to the American government on August 25, 1914.

On account of the proposals, made by the United States on January 23, 1916, regarding disarmament, the imperial government hoped that these facts would enable the neutral governments to obtain the disarmament of the merchant ships of her opponents. The latter, however, continued with great energy to arm their merchantmen with guns.

BILL OF COMPLAINT.

The principle of the United States government not to keep their citizens off belligerent merchant ships has been used by Great Britain and her allies to arm merchant ships for offensive purposes. Under these circumstances merchantmen can easily destroy submarines, and if their attack fails still consider themselves in safety by the presence of American citizens on board.

The order to use arms on British merchantmen was supplemented by instructions to the masters of such ships to hoist false flags and to ram U-boats. Reports on payments of premiums and bestowal of decorations to successful masters of merchantmen show the effects of these orders. England's allies have adopted this position.

Now Germany is facing the following facts:

(A) A blockade contrary to international law (compare American note to England of November 5, 1915) has for one year been keeping neutral trade from German ports and is making German exports impossible.

(B) For eighteen months, through the extending of contraband provisions in violation of international law (compare American note to England of November 5, 1915), the overseas trade of neighboring neutral countries, so far as Germany is concerned, has been hampered.

(C) The interception of mails in violation of international law (compare American memorandum to England of January 10, 1916) is meant to stop any intercourse of Germany with foreign countries.

(D) England by systematically and increasingly oppressing neutral countries, following the principle of "Might before right," has prevented neutral trade on land with Germany so as to complete the blockade of the central powers intended to starve their civil population.

(E) Germany's men by our enemies on the high sea are deprived of their liberty no matter whether they are combatants or noncombatants.

(F) Our enemies have armed their merchant vessels for offensive purposes, theoretically making it impossible to use our U-boats according to the principles set forth in the London declaration. (Compare American memorandum of Feb. 8th, 1916.)

The English White Book of Jan. 5th, 1916, on the restriction of German trade, boasts that by British measures Germany's export trade has been stopped almost entirely whilst her imports are subject to England's will.

The imperial government feels confident that the people of the United States, remembering the friendly relations that for the last hundred years have existed between the two nations, will, in spite of the difficulties put into the way by our enemies, appreciate the German viewpoint as laid down above.

'HARVARD' BOY IN BRIEF STAGE ROMANCE

New York, March 8.—"I am awfully glad I wasn't roped into a marriage with a millionaire's son. I mean it. I'd much rather have my freedom than Mr. Moody's money. There are things in the world lots better than gold."

The words came from the lips of pretty Marion Parks, several of whose nineteen years have been passed behind the footlights. For an hour or more on Monday Miss Marion was the fiancee of Joseph Moody, son of Frederick S. Moody, a millionaire manufacturer of San Francisco. Young Moody claims to be a student at Harvard.

A wire from the chief of police of San Francisco to Inspector Faurot prevented her marriage to the young man. They were halted at the doors of the Marriage License Bureau. A friend had wired Edward Hart, chief license clerk, not to issue a license. So Moody was told he would have to show a birth certificate proving himself to be of age.

Marion is the sprightly little pivot girl in the front row of the "Blue Paradise" chorus at the Casino Theatre. Between numbers she told the story of her brief romance.

"Joe and I became engaged in Murray's," she said. "We have been friends for two years. I met him in San Francisco when he was a student at Berkeley and I was beginning my chorus career with Al Jolson.

WILSON NOMINATES ARMY CHAPLAIN

Washington, March 8.—President Wilson today sent the following nomination to the Senate: To be chaplain with rank of first lieutenant, Rev. Milton S. Hicks, of Illinois.

Harvard Puts Year Limit on Feminine Roles

Harvard has adopted the one-year rule for the female impersonators in the student theatricals. The new ruling limits the acting of any student in "girl roles" to one year.

In a nutshell, this means that the college students who have feminine roles this year in the Hasty Pudding and Pi Eta shows will not be permitted to act "in skirts." Yale was the first university to adopt this idea, the reason being the one assigned by psychological experts that too frequent acting in feminine roles may lead to the "feminization" of the college actors.

The Hasty Pudding show to be given this Spring has four principals who must don dresses and a bevy of chorus girls. R. Whittier, a senior, will have a leading feminine role. Three other important "skirt" parts are to be taken by Frederick R. Cabot, Jr., R. Douglas and C. H. Hodges, all juniors. Their acting this year will prevent them from taking feminine roles in the future at Harvard.

In the chorus of the Pudding show some recasting will be necessary, for some of the successful chorus girls of last year had planned to get into wigs and corsets again this season. Those who have been chorus girls previously will be routed out of the cast.

The students who will go on the retired list as a result of their acting of feminine roles in the Pi Eta show this year are W. L. Munro, Jr., R. M. Ellsworth and A. H. Hayden.

NIGHT CARS TO EAST BOSTON RESTORED

Following close upon the demand of Representative Thomas J. Giblin that a public hearing be arranged on the car service given East Boston, the Elevated announced today the resumption of all-night service through the tunnel to begin tonight.

Representative Giblin, when told of this action, declared that he would continue to demand a public hearing, as the people of East Boston desire half-hour service, instead of hourly cars which the company intends to operate.

The demand of the East Boston representative was made in a letter to Mayor Curley made public today. The company's statement, which was issued shortly before noon, explained that the discontinuance of the night service through the tunnel, to which Representative Giblin objected, was temporary.

The statement read:

"The Boston Elevated Company will resume the operation of all-night car service in the East Boston Tunnel tonight, and the temporary night service to and from the ferries will be discontinued.

"The operation of night cars through the East Boston Tunnel was temporarily discontinued, in order to permit alterations to be made in the tunnel and its equipment. The work is now completed and the same night car service formerly operated will be resumed."

FIRE DRIVES OUT WOBURN FAMILY

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Lader and their two children were driven out by smoke from a fire in the Lader shoe-cobbling shop on the ground floor at No. [illegible] Main street, Woburn, early today. The family occupies the upper part of the two and one-half story building. Firemen estimated the damage to the shop fixtures and stock at $1,000.

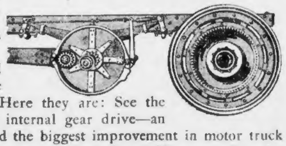
See the Mercedes Chassis at the Show



As an efficient "cross country" truck the Mercedes stands in a class by itself.

A rather broad statement, we'll admit, but just remember, we have the facts to back it up. Here they are: See the illustration above?—that's the internal gear drive—an exclusive Mercedes feature, and the biggest improvement in motor truck construction the industry has seen in many a day. To prove that the Mercedes Internal Drive is less troublesome than the chain or worm drive, let us tell you that the Mercedes drive hasn't been changed in fourteen years. But less complicated mechanism is not the only feature of the

G.V. Mercedes Trucks

In economy of operation, they are way ahead of competitors' trucks. For instance, the Hood Milk Company's 6 ton truck gets 7 miles on one gallon of gas, while a certain well known truck (6 tons) gets only 2½ miles on one gallon of gas.

Economy—capacity—ease of operation—these are the points in which Mercedes trucks excel. Now make us prove it. Come in today—let's dig into Mercedes facts right. Whether you buy or not, we want you to see our product.

BRIGHTER CHILDREN

Children are brighter to-day than a generation ago—but are they stronger? That's a grave question. So many pinched faces, dulled eyes and languid feeling make us wonder if they will ever grow into robust, healthy men and women.

If your children catch colds, are tired when rising, lack healthy color, or find studies difficult, give them Scott's Emulsion to enrich their blood and restore the body-forces to healthy action.

Scott's Emulsion is used in private schools. It is not a "patent medicine", simply a concentrated food-tonic, free from alcohol to improve the blood, benefit the lungs and strengthen the system—always refuse substitutes.

CLEAN THE STREETS!

Clean the streets!

That was the cry heard in all sections of the city as a result of the AMERICAN'S expose in Sunday edition.

Improvement associations were up in arms. They will join in a mass meeting to pass resolutions and force Mayor Curley and his Street Department heads to remove the filth from the streets.

Claims were made that every side street in Boston and its suburbs needed cleaning. So bad are some streets that when the rain comes cellars are flooded, causing thousands of dollars damage.

Where are the city employes assigned to clean the streets? Why are they forced to take a vacation when the streets are in such abominable condition? These are the questions business men want Mayor Curley to answer.

So bad are conditions in some streets that people are wondering what they are compelled to pay taxes for. They say that since Mayor Curley moved to his Jamaicaway villa he is neglecting the poorer localities.

Many assert that since he began riding in a limousine he is more interested in keeping automobile paths clear of dirt and snow than the streets in the congested localities.

Representatives of different civic organizations praise the stand the AMERICAN is taking in backing them up in the advocacy of clean streets. So are the business men in all parts of Boston.

"Dirty scraps of paper are in evidence on streets in many parts of the city," said a member of the Civic Improvement Association in Ward 10.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system.

They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad aftereffects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or disagreeable effects of any kind.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint with the attendant bad breath.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

WHITE TRUCKS PREDOMINATE 2 to 1

WHEN the annual sales of a higher priced truck like the White exceed those of any grade competitor two to one, it must have unusual value to its owner. There is no sentiment about buying trucks. Low eventual cost is the only criterion of value.

The White is the dominant truck in America, judged both by the number annually put into service and by their aggregate value.

CHEFS MOBILIZE FOR FRENCH FAIR

The call for the mobilization of all the French chefs and pastry cooks of Boston, to participate in the French bazaar in behalf of the Orphelinat Francais, to be held in Horticultural Hall during the week of April 10, has been sent out by Paul Muckensturm, secretary of the chefs' committee.

Practically every French chef in Boston replied signifying his willingness to aid in the bazaar. Plans are being made to provide a department in the bazaar where French pastry will be sold, to take home, and lunches will be served. The service of the culinary experts will be donated and the entire proceeds devoted to the fund for the widows and orphans of France.

SOMERVILLE TAX PAYERS ATTACK MAYOR CLIFF

Protesting against Mayor Cliffe's authorization of the use of the Somerville High School hall for dances and entertainment, residents of that city, many of them real estate dealers, have appealed to the Board of Aldermen.

Taxpayers declare the action of Mayor Cliff in letting public property for such purposes interferes with owners of buildings in which there are halls and takes from them a source of revenue.

Seventy-five business men attended a public hearing by a committee of the board of aldermen on the high school hall matter, and forty-eight of those present voted to instruct the committee to see what could be done to compel Mayor Cliff to rescind his permit to let the hall.

Under the law Mayor Cliff is supreme in the matter, and all the aldermen can do is advise him that the best interests of the taxpayers can beserv ed by not having the city compete against halls owned by taxpayers.

A new fraternal socity hall has been erected in the city, and its declared that the move to let the high school hall is done to interfere with the business of the organization in deriving an income from parties held there. This is denied by Mayor Cliff.

350 WESTFIELD STRIKERS MOB FOUNDRY

By International News Service.

Springfield, March 8. — Serious rioting broke out in Westfield today when 350 strikers laid siege to the Southside plant of the H. B. Smith Foundry Company in that town and prevented employes from going to work.

As a consequence the plant was forced to close, the Westfield police department being powerless to disperse the mob.

One man was arrested and found guilty of intimidation. The town authorities met to consider calling for outside police aid.

Price Reduced

For months all prices of raw materials have steadily increased.

Steel, copper, brass, aluminum, tires and a number of other things are from twenty per cent. to two hundred per cent. higher than they were a few months ago.

As a result quite a number of automobile manufacturers have been forced to raise prices.

We have not.

Instead of being forced to increase the price of the $750 Overland we were able to reduce it.

This in spite of the material market.

This in spite of an improved en bloc 35 horsepower motor.

This in spite of better upholstering.

This in spite of many refinements and additional advantages.

This unexpected reduction is the direct result of buying on a large scale all material before the present raw material increases made their appearance.

Just how long we can continue this price is necessarily uncertain. We know it will never be lower but we cannot guarantee that it will never be higher.

No other value like it.

A large thirty-five horsepower five-passenger touring car for only $695—should make every man, woman and child in America stop and consider—before selecting any other.

Any other car of similar specifications will cost you several hundred dollars more.

Such is the economy of our greater production.

Deliveries now.

Druggists Know Best Medicine for Kidney Troubles

During the twenty-five years that I have been selling Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root I have never heard a complaint, as my customers always speak favorably regarding it. Three parties have informed me that they have been restored to health by the use of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root after suffering from Rheumatism, Liver trouble and Gravel. It is a pleasure to me to sell Swamp-Root, as I believe it is the best medicine on the market for kidney, liver and bladder complaints.

Very truly yours,
ED. ROETHLEIN, Druggist.
1104 12th St., Cor. Monroe.
Lynchburg, Va.

Personally appeared before me this 1st day of November, 1915, Ed. Roethlein, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

Don't Merely "Stop" a Cough

Stop the Thing that Causes It and the Cough will Stop Itself

A cough is really one of our best friends. It warns us that there is inflammation or obstruction in a dangerous place. Therefore, when you get a bad cough don't proceed to dose yourself with a lot of drugs that merely "stop" the cough temporarily by deadening the throat nerves. Treat the cause—heal the inflamed membranes. Here is a home-made remedy that gets right at the cause and will make an obstinate cough vanish more quickly than you ever thought possible.

Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents' worth) in a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. This gives you a full pint of the most pleasant and effective cough remedy you ever used, at a cost of only 54 cents. No bother to prepare. Full directions with Pinex.

It heals the inflamed membranes so gently and promptly that you wonder how it does it. Also loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough and stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract rich in guaiacol, and is famous the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.—Advertisement.

Careless Use of Soap Spoils the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—Advertisement.

MRS. D. LESLIE LOGAN, bride in East Boston elopement, whose honeymoon is gladdened by parental forgiveness.—Photo by Purdy.

EAST BOSTON ELOPERS ARE FORGIVEN

D. Leslie Logan of No. 51 West Eagle street and his bride, who was Miss Julia N. Mank of No. 510 Meridian street, East Boston, are today enjoying their honeymoon as a result of parental forgiveness which has been extended to them.

On Sunday Miss Mank left her home, telling her mother she was going to visit friends in Malden, but instead she went to the North Station, where she met young Logan, and they took the 1 o'clock train for Portsmouth, N. H., where they were married in the afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Logan returned home Sunday night and kept their marriage a secret until yesterday.

AUTOCAR COMPANY'S BIG MEN IN BOSTON

President David S. Ludlam, Sales Manager Coale and Advertising Manager H. L. Whittimore of the Autocar Company of Ardmore are inspecting the Automobile Show and meeting the company's branch managers from all over the country.

The Autocar Company believes in doing things in the right manner, and has called to Boston all the big men of its many branches in order that they can see how Boston does its business. In the next two days the branch managers' conference will be held in this city, and everything connected with sales will be gone over in a most thorough manner.

In speaking of motor trucks President Ludlam was most optimistic. He says that in the last two months such a tremendous increase in the demand for Autocars has appeared that every endeavor is put forward to hurry along the completion of the additions to the Ardmore plant. He considers the Boston show the leader of all shows, and he naturally is mightily gratified with the interest displayed in the Autocar exhibit, which is admittedly one of the most complete in the commercial department. One of the new things in the Autocar is the all-steel body for contractors' work, which is meeting with no end of favor with contractors.

FINE DISPLAY OF PIERCE-ARROW CARS

One of the most interesting exhibits at the auto show is the display of Pierce-Arrow motor cars by the J. W. Maguire Company, the New England distributors. The Pierce-Arrow Company is among the most famous of American auto builders.

At the present exhibition Mr. Maguire has several cars that show the possibilities of the Pierce-Arrow. One particularly noticeable car is a new four-passenger model with low sides that has a decidedly snappy appearance. It is finished in gray, with green leather upholstery. Another car that is distinctive is a four-passenger coupe, in yellow. The other Pierce-Arrows are a five-passenger, in green gold and black, with the divided front seats which are standard on Pierce-Arrows. This car has novel features, particularly in the large compartments in the back of the front seats and the tool chest inside the front door, alongside the chauffeur. There are also a flat roof brougham and a French brougham of the landaulet type. All these cars are on the Pierce-Arrow six-cylinder 38 chassis. The 48 six-cylinder chassis is exhibited, with a seven-passenger touring body and with a flat roof limousine body.

MISS WAKELY OF EAST BOSTON WED

Miss Beatrice Wakely, No. 93 Morris street, East Boston, and William J. Coffin, also of the Noddle Island district, were married in the parochial residence of the Sacred Heart Church, East Boston, by the pastor, the Rev. James H. O'Neill, LL. D. The bridesmaid was Miss Mary Wilson and the best man George W. McLaughlin. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

HOW GAS USERS LOSE; COMPANY CAN'T LOSE

Clifford C. Paige, general manager of the Malden and Melrose Gaslight Company, frankly confessed to the Committee on Public Lighting at the State House today that if a patron was getting less gas than he was paying for the company would take no step to correct the meter until the patron complained.

If, on the other hand, the patron is getting more gas than he is paying for, the meter will be adjusted at once, he said.

Mr. Paige was introduced to the committee by Attorney Everett W. Burdett, counsel for a group of gas and electric companies, to present his expert knowledge in opposition to a bill to compel the companies to test and reseal the meters every five years and set the indicator back to zero. He was supposed to be speaking of the general policy of the gas companies in this State. These are his words:

"If the meter were running slow, the company would take it out and test it."

"If it were running fast, the inspectors wouldn't follow it up unless complaint was made."

The difference in this respect between the privately owned and publicly owned gas plants was quickly explained by John J. Kirkpatrick, manager of the municipal plant in Holyoke.

"That isn't the way we do business," said Mr. Kirkpatrick. "If a patron's gas bill shows that he appears to be using an excessive amount of gas, we send an inspector to his home right away to test the meter. If the meter is wrong, we immediately refund the money to the consumer."

URGE WATERTOWN BILL FOR HIGHWAY

Representative Herbert A. Wilson of Boston has appeared before the legislative Committee on Roads and Bridges in support of a provision to lay out North Beacon street as a State highway to Watertown.

Kelly Worm Drive

Instant Success.

The first Kelly worm driven chassis was shown in Boston at the opening of the automobile show, Saturday.

The first two days the following were sold:

M. A. Davis,
Brockton, Mass.

A. S. Caplan,
Boston.

Robert W. Powers,
Fall River.

Brockton Pub. Market,
Brockton.

Forestry Department,
City of Newton.

Street Department,
City of Newton.

George W. Wall,
Plymouth.

Thomas E. Reed,
Gloucester.

This is evidence enough of the high opinion the buying public of New England has of the Kelly. Eight sales within the first two days of the show speaks better than anything else.

It would be a good idea if you would take the time to look over the Kelly trucks exhibited at the auto show.

ROCKLAND FIRST IN FREEDOM FROM FIRE

Rockland leads the cities and towns of the Metropolitan Fire Prevention District in the relative safety of the inhabitants from fire for the year of 1915, and Lexington is last, according to statistics compiled in the office of Fire Prevention Commissioner John A. O'Keefe.

These statistics give the relative number of alarms, the alarms per 10,000 or pro rata, and the standing of the cities and towns of the district based on the alarms per 10,000.

It gives further indication that the cities and towns at the bottom of the list have the prevailing conditions that lead to fires, such as the accumulation of waste material, especially oily rags and matches instead of the strike-on-box matches, which are cheaper; careless smoking; the presence of combustible material near gas jets, the careless use of candles, kerosene lamps and stoves, defective chimneys and flues, and the use of wooden shingles.

Belmont and Arlington follow close behind Rockland; Boston is seventh, while Medford, Milton, Newton, Reading and Winthrop are down near the end of the list.

Yale Seniors Spent Million During Course

By International News Service.

New Haven, Ct., March 8.—Education cost the present Yale senior class of 325, $1,957,381, averaging per man for the course $4,637, according to figures made public today.

The highest for any man is $15,000, while the lowest is $800. Of these figures 128 have earned part of their way, or $206,979.

Tobacco is used by 225, of whom 103 have taken it up since coming here. Of the 140 who drink, fifty-four took their first tipple at Yale.

Another shock came when a man other than an athlete was voted to have done most for Yale. He is William Ross Proctor, Jr., of New York city.

Morris Hadley, the president's son, was voted the most scholarly and the greatest student; Harry Crocker of San Francisco, baseball manager, the most popular; Pie Way of Manchester, N. H., the best all round athlete; Otis Guernsey of New York, noted drop kicker, the handsomest, and Lawrence G. Tighe of St. Paul the most likely to succeed.

PLAN TO RAISE $125,000 FOR BOYS' CLUB

An enthusiastic meeting of the committee in charge of the campaign to raise $125,000 for a new clubhouse for the Bunker Hill Boys' Club was held at the City Club, with Bert Waters, the old Harvard football star, presiding.

Brief addresses were made by Mr. Waters, vice president; George R. Smith of the City Club, E. M. Bird and Maurice Reedy of Worcester. Mr. Reedy outlined the work accomplished last year for the Worcester Boys' Club, where $165,000 was raised in seven days.

An Initial Subscription Committee, consisting of Philip Cabot, George R. Baker, E. V. R. Thayer, C. E. Rogerson, James J. Phelan and Louis A. Coolidge, will do some important work preceding the work of the Teams Committee.

This committee comprises R. C. Waters, George E. Briggs, Sydney Curtis, Frank S. Mason, Jesse B. Wilcox, Carrol J. Swan, Albert G. Ferguson, John A. Voudry, Franklin W. Ganse, Percy A. Goodale, William J. Murray, E. E. Hall, C. G. McDavitt, Charles R. Davis, March G. Bennett, L. C. Johnson, Richard S. Teeling, Robert S. Hale and William J. Sweeney.

The team captains are G. B. Gilmore, Fred H. Safford, C. Ernest Greenwood, Howard Jackson, Paul W. Lewis, M. L. Fahey, Edward E. Moore, Fred W. Harding, Judge C. H. Sullivan, Fred O. Roberts, Arthur A. Wormell, John J. Attridge, Claude A. Palmer, [illegible] E. Pickett.

It was decided to open the campaign on March 11 and conclude it on March [illegible].

There will be [illegible] teams of [illegible] members to a team. There will be [illegible] teams of business men, [illegible] of young men, [illegible] of [illegible] and probably [illegible] college teams.

Economy

21.89 miles per gallon of gasoline—400 miles per gallon of oil—9,871 miles average per tire.

These are the figures established when the Maxwell stock touring car—by running 22,000 miles in 44 days without stopping—set the World's Motor Non-Stop Mileage Record. The object of this run was simply to prove that the Maxwell was a sturdy, reliable, well made car. No attempt was made to save fuel, oil or tires and the figures given above merely indicate what would be possible under ordinary driving conditions, which would, of course, be much more favorable.

We are selling Maxwell Motor Cars on partial payments, which in itself is final proof of our faith and confidence in the car. Make a small cash payment and get your car now. Then pay the balance as you ride.

At the automobile show you can see the Maxwell, both as a stripped chassis and as a complete car in a wide variety of body styles. A cordial welcome awaits you at our space.

J. T. AUERBACH DIES AFTER OPERATIONS

Friends in every walk of life, throughout Boston and Massachusetts, mourn today the passing of Junius T. Auerbach, one of the ablest of the younger members of the Boston bar, who died last night at Corey Hill Hospital, Brookline, where he had been a patient for ten weeks. His death followed two operations for appendicitis. He was in his forty-sixth year.

Since the establishment of Mr. Hearst's newspaper in Boston Mr. Auerbach had been the AMERICAN'S legal representative, and, while the AMERICAN had no exclusive claim upon his services and his work for this newspaper represented perhaps but a small part of his large and lucrative practice, Mr. Auerbach became widely and popularly known through his able and vigorous State House championship of legislation favored by the AMERICAN.

For ten years or more he had been a stalwart and eloquent champion of the rights of that average citizen whom one of the New England Governors described not long ago as the "forgotten man."

HARVARD LAW GRADUATE.

Mr. Auerbach was a native of Troy, Alabama, the son of the late Theodore H. and Mrs. Annie T. (Engel) Auerbach, now of Brookline. He was prepared for college at the Cascadilla School, Ithaca, N. Y., and in 1890 was graduated with honors from Cornell University. Then he came to Boston, and in 1893 was graduated from the Harvard Law School.

Following his admission to the Suffolk County bar, he began practice in association with the late W. B. French. Since 1895 he had been in practice for himself.

His career as a pleader for the people began with the AMERICAN'S championship of the 80-cent gas bill, which resulted in the adoption of the sliding scale law.

Later, he appeared frequently before committees in favor of municipal lighting, to urge reforms in New England railroading, on behalf of direct nominations, the direct election of United States Senators, legislation for pure food, for public health bills, and for the most wide-open publicity in connection with the meetings of public boards and commissions.

A RELENTLESS FIGHTER.

In his professional work and public life a relentless fighter, Mr. Auerbach, on his personal side, was one of the wittiest of men and the most delightful of companions. His heart was bound up in his wife, their two splendid boys, and his dear old mother.

He was intensely ambitious, not on his own account, but in behalf of those he loved, and his indefatigable attention to business undoubtedly brought about a weakened condition in which he was but ill-prepared to withstand the shock of two operations. He went to the hospital on December 28 and was operated upon that day. He weakened gradually following a second operation.

Mr. Auerbach was a member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, the Harvard Club of Boston, the Boston City Club, Chamber of Commerce, Boston Press Club, Boston Lodge of Elks, the Masonic fraternity and the Mystic Shrine. He founded and for many years was the president of the New England Cornell Club. He was also a member of the Alumni Council of Cornell, being the representative of his class and always took a prominent part in the affairs of his university.

He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Margaret McSherry Auerbach; two sons, Eugene Kimball and Richard Dexter Auerbach; his mother, Mrs. Annie T. Auerbach, and two brothers, Herbert T., a Buffalo, N. Y., manufacturer, and Frederic S. Auerbach, Esq., who for several years had shared his law offices.

The body has been removed to the family residence at No. 128 Clinton road, Brookline, where the funeral will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

ASH WEDNESDAY CHURCH SERVICES

Today is Ash Wednesday, opening day of Lent. The ceremony of blessing and distribution of holy ashes was carried out in the Catholic churches this morning and will be repeated this evening. From now until the end of Lent every Wednesday and Friday will be fast days. All adults must abstain from the use of meat, except those who are for various reasons exempt from fasting.

Lenten observances in the Episcopal churches will include special services at St. Paul's Cathedral during the continuance of the penitential season.

Easter Sunday falls this year on April 23.

BURGLAR SUSPECT FACES LIQUOR CASE

Joseph J. Fry, one of two negroes arrested in connection with the breaking and entering of the home of Miss Emma Crane of Auburndale, and who is held in $20,000, was taken from the East Cambridge jail to the Roxbury court today to answer to a complaint charging illegal sale of liquor. He changed his plea to not guilty and the case was continued to May 8.

DOWNTOWN FIRE TIES UP TRAFFIC

Traffic was held up and the downtown district thrown into confusion early today as the result of a fire of unknown origin in the Washburn building at the corner of Essex and Washington streets. The fire, which started under a stairway near the Essex street entrance, burned briskly, but was extinguished with a loss estimated by the police at $100.

Say Rich Widow Used Canary as Love's Medium

By International News Service.

New York, March 8.—A canary bird was the medium through which Mrs. Minerva B. Toler, wealthy widow, and Patrick Carey, father of thirteen children, whispered their love messages when others were around, according to Miss Sarah Carey, sister of Patrick, who testified in the Supreme Court here. Mrs. Elizabeth Carey is suing Mrs. Toler for $50,000 for alleged alienation of Carey's affections.

"Mrs. Toler told me she could not get along without my brother," Miss Carey testified. "She said that they used to call each other all sorts of endearing names in private, but had to arrange a code in which the canary appeared to be the object of each other's affection when members of the family were present."

EXPORT TAX ON GASOLINE WINS SUPPORT

By International News Service.

Washington, March 8.—The proposal to place an export tax on gasoline as a means of lowering the price has met with great favor among many members of Congress, as several have announced themselves in favor of the bill introduced by Representative Britten of Illinois.

Representative Charles H. Randall, of California said he would favor an embargo if other measures failed to check soaring prices.

"I am not certain a heavy duty on gasoline exported would be legal, but I understand ways may be found for placing an embargo on exportations," said Representative Randall. "I am in favor of speedy action, and am going to the very limit to stop this hold-up by the oil interests.

EMBARGO WOULD BE JUSTIFIED.

"It is reasonable to assume that if the enormous exportation of gasoline, running into hundreds of millions of gallons a year, can be shown actually to be a menace to the country, an embargo would be justified. I have not looked up the fine constitutional points on that phase of the problem, but in a discussion with other members of Congress I have gathered that such a step would not be unpopular."

Representative Sydney E. Mudd of Maryland said he favored a heavy duty on gasoline exported as one remedy. He also declared he would support any measure looking to an embargo, but believed a speedy investigation followed by a vigorous prosecution would have a salient effect on those in control of price making.

GIVES CREDIT TO THE AMERICAN.

"I am deeply interested in the movement to bring down the price of gasoline and think the Hearst newspapers should be commended for the agitation they have started," said Representative Mudd. "There is certainly some way that the rapid rise in prices can be checked. I think Congress can find that way if other agencies of the government fail."

POLICE GUARDS AT RUBBER PLANT

Fearing a riot this evening outside the plant of the Hood Rubber Company, East Watertown, where 300 operatives have been on strike since Monday for a higher wage and better working conditions, officials of the corporation asked the local authorities to assign twelve policemen in the vicinity of the company's buildings. There are 4,000 other employes at work.

According to the strikers, who are unorganized, twenty-five or fifty men and women are taking their places in the outer sole and packing room and are being housed there nightly.

Officials of the Hood company minimize the report 300 employes are out.

Several of the strikers took part in the last strike at the Hood plant and at that time were assisted by the I. W. W. There was talk today among the strikers of having I. W. W. leaders manage the present strike and call out the entire working force of the Hood company.

Company officials have hired eighteen private detectives, including nine women.

CHAPPED HANDS AN AWFUL SIGHT

Sore, Red and Rough. Continually Cracking Open. Could Not Put Them In Water At All.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"I was troubled with chapped hands which first started from exposure to the air. My hands were sore and red and rough and were continually cracking open and bleeding. They were so sore I could not put them in water at all nor even sweep the floor. They were swollen and an awful sight and I didn't want anyone to see them.

"I noticed Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised and I sent for a sample. The sample seemed to do so much good that I bought more, and after I had used two bars of Cuticura Soap and one and one-half boxes of Ointment my hands were healed." (Signed) Miss Mae Mattis, 32 Whipple St., Pittsfield, Mass., Aug. 1, 1915.

CLEANSES YOUR KIDNEYS, PURIFIES YOUR BLOOD

For centuries all over the world GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil has afforded relief in thousands upon thousands of cases of lame back, lumbago, sciatica, rheumatism, gall-stones, gravel and all affections of the kidneys, liver, stomach, bladder and allied organs. It acts quickly. It does the work. It cleanses your kidneys and purifies the blood. It makes a new man, a new woman of you. It frequently wards off attacks of the dread and fatal diseases of the kidneys. It often completely cures the distressing diseases of the organs of the body allied with the bladder and kidneys. Bloody or cloudy urine, sediment or "brick-dust" indicate an unhealthy condition.

Don't make the fatal mistake of neglecting what may seem to be a "simple little backache." There isn't any such thing. It may be the first warning that your kidneys are not working properly, and throwing off the poisons as they should. If this is the case, go after the cause of that backache and do it quickly or you may find yourself in the grip of an incurable disease.

Do not delay a minute if you are sore across the loins or have difficulty when urinating. Go to your druggist at once and get a box of imported GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. They are pleasant and easy to take. They dissolve in the stomach and the kidneys soak up the oil like a sponge does water. They thoroughly cleanse and wash out the bladder and kidneys and throw off the inflammation which is the cause of your trouble. Your druggist will cheerfully refund your money if you are not satisfied after a few days' use. Accept only the pure, original GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules.

SAYS FARMERS PRODUCE MILK AT A LOSS

"Statistics show that New Hampshire farmers are now producing milk at a loss of half a cent a quart," said Professor Frederick Rasmusser of the New Hampshire State College today at the railroad milk rate hearing before Examiner Brown of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Professor Rasmusser said that any further increase would endanger the farming industry of New Hampshire because any increase in cost of transporting and marketing milk is always taken out of the unorganized farmers who are at the mercy of the large [illegible] dealers.

W. H. Elliott of M[illegible], N. H., said:

"Reckless driving of the Boston & Maine seems to have landed that road in the ditch and, as usual in such cases, it plans to get the nearest farmer to haul it out."

ADVERSE REPORT ON ELECTRIFICATION

The bill to compel railroads to electrify their lines within a radius of ten miles from Boston was reported adversely today by the Committee on Railroads of the Legislature.

In opposing the bill at the public hearings the railroad attorneys said the proposition to electrify is good enough but the proponents neglected to tell how the railroads could get the $40,000,000 necessary to do the work.

Four members of the Railroad Committee dissent from the adverse report. They are Senators Timilty of Boston and McLane of Fall River and Representatives Benson and McGrath of Boston.

RESCUE 2 CHILDREN FROM NATICK FIRE

Two children narrowly escaped death in a fire which destroyed the home of George Westly, off West Central street, Natick. When the fire was discovered flames were sweeping through the upper story, where the children were asleep. Their father and a neighbor rescued them. The property loss was estimated by the police at $2,500.

By JOHN W. MORAN, JR.

MIAMI, FLA., March 8.—Today's programme for the Braves calls for the playing of another seven-inning game, similar to that of yesterday, with Johnny Evers and Eddie Fitzpatrick leading the teams.

Yesterday the Evers lead combination triumphed over the Fitz's to the tune of 7 to 5, in the first game of ball a Boston team has played this year.

MORAN IS TOLD TO LET UP

Trainer Willie Lewis Fears Challenger Getting Too Fine—Frank Looks for a Kayo.

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 6.—Frank Moran is right on edge. His greatest danger at present is overtraining. This was the impression gained after watching him go through his work at Hawkins' road house yesterday afternoon.

The big blond was full of [illegible] and had to be admonished frequently by Trainer Willie Lewis. He went through two rounds of boxing with Frank Kendall, the Oregon [illegible] ky, and one round with Bartley Madden.

PHIL DOUGLAS RUN AWAY BY JOE TINKER

Tampa, Fla., March 8.—Pitcher Phil Douglas was indefinitely suspended yesterday by Manager Tinker and ordered to leave the Cubs training camp.

DIARY OF JESS WILLARD HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION

New York, Wednesday, March 8.

THERE was nothing alluring nor inviting about the snowy streets yesterday morning, so I passed up the roadwork. All hands were up shortly before 7 o'clock, but we just took a tub, lounged around for an hour and then went down to breakfast.

It seemed strange to sit around doing nothing when we were usually on the road, but I didn't intend to take any chances, so we stuck in the hotel. About 10 o'clock I went up to my room and indulged in some shadow boxing and bending down exercises.

While shadow sparring is not much in my line it helped to limber me up somewhat and made me feel better than if I were lying about idle. After winding up I received a nice massage and then lolled around in the hotel lobby until midmeal.

When this was over Monahan, Hemple and myself started for a walk. The "going" being very sloppy we soon tired and were back at the hotel inside of twenty minutes. It was only a few minutes later that the auto showed up and we started for the clubhouse. It took me only a few minutes to get into ring costume and then all hands started in to do some real work.

Rodel the Boer Enters Champion's Camp.

Yesterday afternoon I had George Rodel, the Boer, to help me out, in addition to Monahan and Hemple. George was the man that gave me my hardest battles before I met Jack Johnson.

I went through eight rounds of boxing instead of six. As the time for my bout with Moran gets closer I intend to do more boxing. The reason I intend to pay so much attention to boxing is that this is the principal part of the game.

Many critics claim that the boxing I do is only exhibition, but I am satisfied with the work I have done since I started. There is still over two weeks in which to condition myself.

From what I hear Moran is trained to the moment, which won't help him very much. In training, as anything else, a man must use moderation, and that is the reason I am not as fit as many of the so-called experts would like to have me.

After I boxed the eight rounds I didn't feel the least sign of distress and that satisfied me that my ten-round bout would not be such a hardship as many imagine.

Doesn't Consider Moran a World-Beater.

As far as I know Moran is not a world-beater. Poor Jim Coffey was the only victim that succumbed to his blows. Al Palzer was another victim, but when Coffey stopped Palzer the latter was in poor physical shape. Those few knockouts don't alarm me in the least.

All I have to say about my training is that I am doing all that I intend to do. It doesn't make any difference whether some alleged experts do criticize me. I know just how to get in condition.

In preparing for this encounter I am satisfied I am going along the proper lines. And when I am satisfied it means that everybody in the camp is convinced that everything is correct.

New York, March 8.—The U. S. G. A. has changed the date of the women's national championship from September 12-16 to October 2-7, inclusive. It will be held at Belmont Springs, Waverley, Mass.

Hanover, N. H., March 8.—R. C. Tyler '17, of Exeter, N. H., has been elected captain of Dartmouth's '16 varsity hockey seven.

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 8.—Michigan announces that within a year or two it will be represented at the eastern intercollegiate regattas.

Hanover, N. H., March 8.—Dartmouth's freshmen ended their basketball season by defeating Dean Academy, 22-18.

Philadelphia, March 8.—Willie Gibbs, featherweight pugilist, died from poisoning, which physicians say resulted from an overdose of a drug. He collapsed Monday night and never regained consciousness. Joseph Good and Sammy Burns, who were with him, were held as material witnesses under $500 bail each. Gibbs' real name was Daniel Sharp.

Toledo, O., March 8.—The Green Seals of Toledo, with 2,7[illegible]7, took the lead in the five men team event in the A. B. C. tournament.

New York, March 8.—The National gymnastic championship contests of the A. A. U. will be held at Newark, N. J., May 13.

F. Baker Reports and Bad Hand Almost Well

By International News Service.

Macon, Ga., March 8.—J. Franklin Baker joined the Yankee camp last night. The big fellow will make his first appearance in a New York uniform today at the Fair Grounds park, where the Yankees take their exercise.

From now on the attention of every one in the Yankee party will be riveted on Baker. As the Trappe, Md., farmer is to be one of the main dependencies of the club in its proposed uprising this season, everyone from Manager Donovan down is anxious to see if the batting eye which made him famous with the Athletics is still as keen as ever.

Baker appears to be in good shape to begin training except that he has a bad finger. The nail came off the injured member of his right hand. Baker doesn't seem to think it amounts to much, but it may interfere with him using a bat for a few days.

With all of his athletes in camp the only thing that is worrying Donovan now is the uncertainty of the weather. Yesterday a thunder shower broke up the practice game between the regulars and Yannigans.

FELTON LOSES TO JONES.

Frank Jones of Philadelphia outplayed George Felton of Boston in their Interstate Three-Cushion League game at Littlefield's last night and won out, 50-44. A run of seven by the winner was the feature.

MELROSE STAR SET DOWN.

Right Wing Hovlan of Melrose High has been declared ineligible and will be unable to take part in Friday night's big hockey battle with Newton High. Spinney will fill his position.

Red Sox Depart Friday

Squad to Be Brief One

By HERMAN NICKERSON.

THE snow may be piled high upon the surface of Fenway Park, where the World's Champions hold forth, but it is a warm snow holding the sod beneath in its grasp, protecting it from the frost and in this way ensuring a speedy dryout when the hot sun has set to "beautiful" the way of all things

Manager Carrigan, from his home in Lewiston, Me., [illegible] the park to see that his trusted lieutenant in the care of the men was getting all the "stuff" needed on the training trip

It was Boss Bill's second trip out to the scene of many triumphs and now everything is set for the getaway. Bill has all the confidence in the world in Trainer "Doc" Green, but preferred to be sure rather than sorry. [illegible] item is typical of Carrigan. He isn't much of a speech maker, neither is he an easy man to interview. In fact, Bill is about as hard a man to get copy out of as any in the game, but he keeps up a powerful thinking and is a master of detail

CARRIGAN SHOWING WISDOM.

Bill plans way ahead and once having made up his mind upon a line of action he follows it to the finish. His work for Spring training this year is apt to be copied in seasons to come. He figures his team composed of young players who do not require any great amount of work to get down to weight. In fact the superfluous flesh they may have on when they report will help rather than hinder them, for the baths can take care of that

Hot Springs was a pretty cold place last Spring. Still, the boys got their long mountain walks and their baths and rubdowns which will keep everyone in shape. The amount of [illegible] else was sufficient for the wind, and there were enough exhibition games to give them the proper practice as a team

This Spring the pitchers and catchers will have almost three weeks at the camp. This is a good scheme for they will be in about the proper position in their training to lend a few over to the rest of the squad when they have recovered from that period of soreness which follows the first day or two of outdoor work

JUMP STRAIGHT NORTH.

The World's Champions will have a short trip up East where they open, passing from the South and its Summer heat to the North with what is likely to be a cold Spring, by a rapid jump—that from Memphis to Baltimore. As the champions open in Boston they will have the days they play Buffalo and Brooklyn in which to get accustomed to whatever change there may be in the temperature.

The games with Harvard and Boston College will also help, so Manager Carrigan's short training trip scheme is apt to prove just the thing for a winner

Patsy Donovan had his Buffalo team train at Brockton last Spring, and it opened in the East in about the same temperature [illegible] plans to take his [illegible] to see that his [illegible] but it is the best [illegible] men work out [illegible] when the real work [illegible]

Barry [illegible] his arm is feeling fine [illegible] that two weeks [illegible] he will require to get [illegible] shape. He has been working out at the gym at Holy Cross. Larry Gardner has also been heard from. The Vermonter is in the best of spirits and feels that he will be able to show the fans he is there at third

SOX LEAVE FRIDAY MORNING.

Secretary [illegible] so that the party leaving [illegible] at 10 a. m. Friday for Hot Springs will occupy the same Pullman car all the way through to the Ozark Mountain resort

President J. J. Lannin will be on hand when the train pulls out to bid his manager good bye and good luck. He feels confident that his club's affairs are in the best possible shape

On Wood and Speaker there isn't a bit of change. Lannin expects Tris to come to time with his signature and Joe to show cause why he should be retained as a twirler

STERLING ALE

The prestige of Sterling—great as it is—grows steadily greater.

MORE consumers demand it for the satisfaction it gives. More dealers serve it for the business it builds. Slowly but surely, the wider markets that quality commands welcome this good New England brew.

Today, more than ever, it is Sterling that makes Boston the first ale city of America.

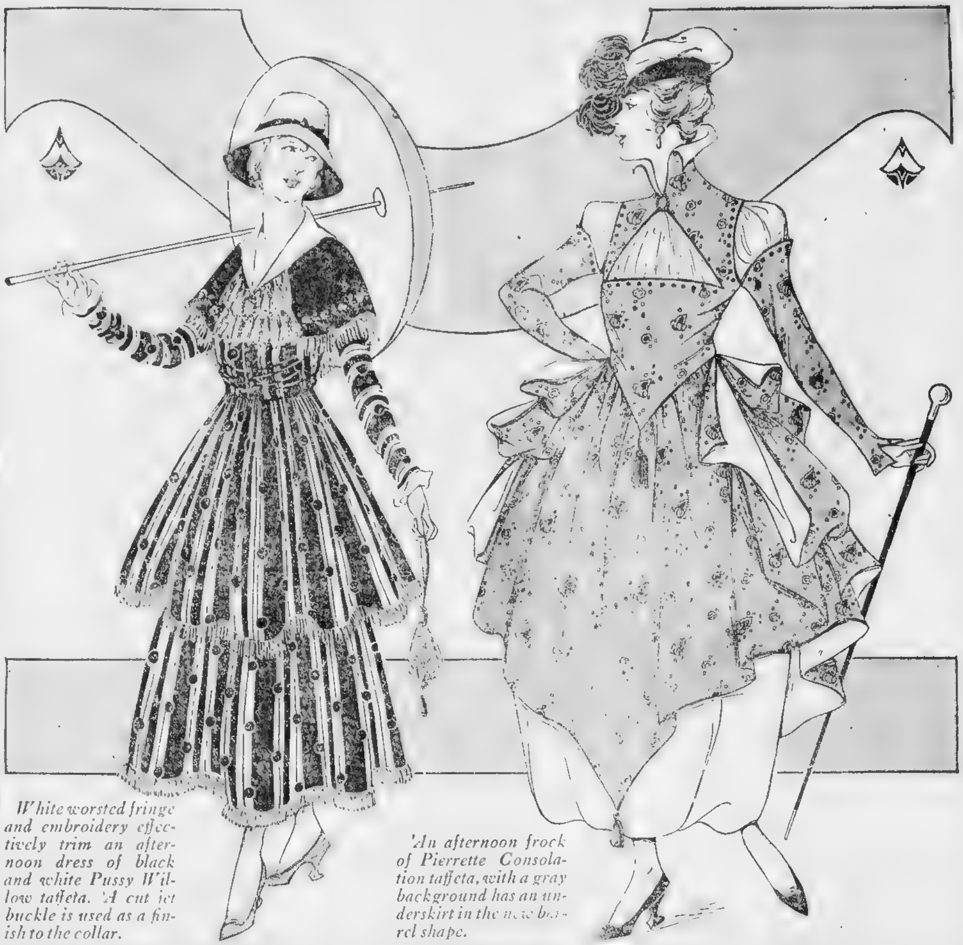
Pin Money Frocks

Republished by Special Arrangement with HARPER'S BAZAR, a Magazine for the Woman Who Knows, Issued Without Interruption for Over Fifty Years



White worsted fringe and embroidery effectively trim an afternoon dress of black and white Pussy Willow taffeta. A cut jet buckle is used as a finish to the collar.

An afternoon frock of Pierrette Consolation taffeta, with a gray background has an underskirt in the new barrel shape.

A SILK DRESS is [illegible] indispensable when the first warm days of Spring come, and the quest for suitable material is of as much importance as the selection of a design. Particularly charming are the silk afternoon frocks featured in the March issue of Harper's Bazar.

Especially suited to the tall, thin woman [illegible] black and white striped [illegible] taffeta shown on this page. Worsted fringe edges [illegible] flounce [illegible] of black [illegible] in white worsted [illegible] with [illegible] if preferred [illegible] embroidery could be [illegible] worsted on silk is ever so [illegible] and good looking.

Those who like the most excess style will find [illegible] the [illegible] sleeves [illegible] neck opening.

Just now the shops are [illegible] most charming [illegible] but often one [illegible] because it is so difficult to [illegible] to get a smart looking [illegible] with "the something different" made at home by the seamstress. The cotton frocks have [illegible] planned therefore with great [illegible] so that although unusual [illegible] they can be easily made.

Linens are always good-looking for separate skirts, but mercerized [illegible] cords will be very smart [illegible] in several different weights of cordings and, by [illegible] way, the ribs run crosswise of [illegible] material.

[illegible] Ottoman stripes will be [illegible] used for sports skirts, as the [illegible] for color is more in evidence [illegible] than it has been for [illegible] Wide cord, gabardine and [illegible] are popular [illegible] but the basket weaves for [illegible] Oxfords, as the English call them, are used for white skirts. Palm Beach cloth in natural color is excellent for many tailored costumes.

Organdie is the favored material for blouses, not only in white but in all colors. Frequently a pale blue collar is added to a mauve blouse or a soft yellow is used to trim a blouse of gray, but for general wear all white is most satisfactory, and handkerchief linen, batiste, organdie and lawn are the most practical materials.

All the country [illegible] went to certain points to see her pass, some on "shank's [illegible]" some in carts and some in coaches and on horseback. They were [illegible] intent on seeing "a fine [illegible] on a white horse, with [illegible] on her fingers" at least, although "bells on her toes" may have been a bit of an exaggeration.

And what about "Jack and Jill"? Talk of immortality! Nothing Shakespeare, or Milton, or Tennyson [illegible] the [illegible] Who [illegible] Jack [illegible] the [illegible] such thing. Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

NOT PROPER

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

For the past two years I have met a certain young man on the train going to and from [illegible] Coming home the other [illegible] spoke to me and said that he often hoped that he might be introduced by someone, but [illegible] getting this opportunity, he took the liberty of addressing [illegible] without an introduction. He [illegible] me if he might call and I [illegible] tated. Kindly advise me if it would be all right for me to keep up the acquaintance. R. B. D.

NO, it is not proper for you to continue this acquaintance. It is not even safe. All you know is that you like his looks. Of his character and reputation you have no knowledge.

DON'T BE JEALOUS

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am twenty and have for a year been going about steadily with a man of twenty-two, who has declared his love for me. When we are out he pays more attention to other girls than to me. What course of action would you advise? B. O. F.

DON'T let foolish jealousy mar your friendship. Love is never so loyal as when it feels a certain amount of freedom. Possibly this young man does find other girls fairly interesting now and then, but that probably will not interfere with his greater affection for and [illegible] to you, unless you nag him [illegible]

MAKES NO DIFFERENCE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Will you kindly advise me as [illegible] as to whether or [illegible] think it lucky or unlucky to be married in May? I [illegible] planned for May, but everyone seems to say it is very unlucky. It is also my birth month, [illegible] is to be lucky for every [illegible] (Married in May, shortly [illegible]) M. F. B.

IT is very unlucky to be foolishly [illegible] but it certainly is [illegible] to affect the happiness [illegible] if it is solemnized [illegible] another. The superstition in regard to May marriages is based on ancient mythology [illegible] certainly should not in[illegible] in our days of modern thought.

MAKE ONE EFFORT.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have been going about with a young man for the past six months.

I have not heard from him for two weeks. Should I write? C. H. T.

THERE is no reason why you should not make an effort to discover what causes your friend's silence. He may be ill, in which case your friendly interest is only fitting. He may, on the other hand, mean to break off the affair and in that case it is just as well for you to know at once and not to waste emotion on him.

Kindness That Is Cruelty

Beatrice Fairfax Warns Against the Coddling Habit

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THERE is nothing more acceptable or welcome than judiciously applied sympathy, but the mother who lavishes continued and extravagant pity upon her children is really doing them an irreparable wrong.

If we use the "muscles of our souls" we grow morally stronger, just as the exercise of our bodies strengthens us physically. [illegible] who from childhood have been saddled with a proportionate part of the family burden put upon their shoulders make better men and find the hardships of after-life more easy to bear, while those who have had all troubles lifted from their shoulders by over-indulgent parents find every molehill a mountain and the softest wind a hurricane.

"There, there, darling! Let mother kiss it better, poor little chap!" says the foolish mother to her tiny boy should he injure himself the tiniest bit. As he grows older her heart aches because he has to face school in the cold mornings, and she expresses grief at this terrible hardship and possibly she waits on the doorstep for his return to help him off with his things and set him by a warm fire.

RUINED BY SELF-PITY

Then when he is ready for an office stool, he comes to her with every little grievance about his "boss" and fellow-workers, because he knows she will listen and commiserate with him. Even should he himself become a manager or proprietor, she pities him because his business will not allow him to have a motor car or some other extravagance. So, instead of becoming a useful and interesting member of the community, he is [illegible] with the terrible and incurable disease, "self-pity."

I know not one, but at least a dozen young men who [illegible] of humble parents [illegible] been given good educations [illegible] in a higher sphere of [illegible] They all permit their [illegible] to wait on them, and some [illegible] actually boast that they have coffee brought to them in the early mornings when they [illegible]

How sorry such men will be for themselves when they face the hardships of training, and how much worse it will seem than it would, had they been made to rough it a bit more. It is just as necessary for children to be trained to meet the blows of after-life as it is for them to have proper food and clothing.

THE HAPPIEST CHILDREN

There is an old lady today who has passed through a life of most abject poverty. Not because she has been overburdened with troubles, but because from childhood onward those with whom she has come in contact have lavished unbounded sympathy upon her. Her husband was the last to pity her if she had to do the ordinary duties of a normally healthy woman. [illegible] years ago he died, and for all that long time she has been left with only herself to be sorry for herself, and so her face is lined and marked with discontent, and she looks older than her years.

It is the mother who demands the most of her children who gets the most from them, and such children certainly grow up healthier and happier than those who have been taught by precept that they are to have the best of everything and endless pity when the least trouble comes their way.

Couldn't Resist

Some time ago an esteemed citizen was rambling along the pavement, when he was approached by an enterprising young man selling flowers.

"Here you are, sir!" cried the salesman, extending a bouquet. "Buy some beautiful flowers for your sweetheart?"

"Nothing doing," responded the esteemed citizen. "I haven't got a sweetheart."

"I see," was the prompt rejoinder of the salesman. "Buy the flowers for your wife."

"Wrong again," came back the other. "I am not married."

"Fine!" exclaimed the resourceful salesman. "Buy the bouquet to celebrate your luck."

Stocks Were Weak in Boston and New York at Noon—Opened Fairly Firm, Then Receded—Alaska Gold Was Active and Higher

STOCKS WEAK AT NOON, WITH NO RALLIES OF CONSEQUENCE

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor.

Stocks were weak at noon, averaging fractionally lower than at the opening. There was no rally of consequence from the first hour recession. Trading was dull all the forenoon. All oils did not retain gains. Reading was a strong railroad. One market feature was the advance of Alaska Gold. It climbed two points or more in both markets. Among the weakest stocks at midday were Maxwell, Studebaker, Mexican Petroleum, Texas Company, Industrial Alcohol, Crucible Steel, American Smelting and New Haven. They had receded a point or more.

Declines at 12 o'clock included Anaconda ⅛, Chino ⅜, Utah Copper ½, American Smelting 1, U. S. Steel ⅜, American Zinc ⅜, Butte & Superior ⅛, Baldwin ⅞, Crucible 1½, Maxwell ⅜, Mexican Petroleum 1⅝, Texas Co. 1¼, Studebaker 1⅛, Industrial Alcohol 1¼, Chesapeake & Ohio ½, N. Y. Central ½, New Haven 1 and Union Pacific ⅝.

Among gains were Alaska Gold 2, Reading 1¾, California Petroleum 1⅜ and Lackawanna Steel ⅛.

Declines in Boston included Allouez ¾, Calumet and Arizona ¾, Copper Range ½, Old Dominion ¼, Mohawk ¼, Tamarack 1¾, and American Zinc ⅞.

Among gains were Alaska Gold 2, American Woolen preferred ¼, Butte and Superior ¼, Granby 1 and North Butte ⅛.

LIKE YESTERDAY'S MARKET.

Stocks ruled a shade higher in New York at the opening, with many unchanged. Only a few showed losses on initial transactions. Within a few minutes prices began to recede. It was a repetition of the market start of yesterday. Business was of moderate volume only. The support rendered President Wilson by Congress after bitter controversy did not lend stocks any strength. Traders are considering now what will happen if any Americans lose life through German submarine boat activity. Reports as to the fighting around Verdun were not wholly pleasing to speculators. Uncertainty still prevails and no element at present operating in the market has much initiative.

OIL ISSUES UP AT START.

Oil issues had more strength in early trading than they displayed yesterday, California Petroleum and Texas Co. each opening with a point or more gain. The market was narrow as well as quiet. War industrials and oils were the most active issues. Transactions in coppers were comparatively few and not on a large scale. Railroads figured as little on the tape as usual. There was a good deal of business in Crucible Steel. At the end of half an hour no definite price trend had developed. The majority of issues were off a fraction.

BOSTON PRICES LOWER.

At the opening there was very little trading in Boston and the local market had a rather weak tone. A large proportion of stocks dealt in at that time were at unchanged quotations. Zincs were quiet and irregular. They were in larger supply than demand. There was nothing significant about the Boston market during the first half hour.

Allouez directors today declared a dividend of $1.50 a share. In January last $1 was distributed. Ahmeek directors declared a $3 dividend today, the previous one, paid in January, was $2.50.

On the London Metal Exchange spot copper was off £4 15s., futures were off £4 and electrolytic was unchanged. Spot and Straits tin were each up £1, while futures were 10s. higher. Spot lead was up 2s. 6d., futures were 5s. higher. Spot spelter was off £4 at £98 a ton and futures were £3 lower at £85.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE SAYS AUTHORITY

Take a tablespoonful of Salts to flush Kidneys if Back hurts.

Omit all meat from diet if you feel Rheumatic or Bladder bothers

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid, which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightfully effervescent lithia water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.—Advertisement.

An Inside Bath Makes You Look and Feel Fresh

Says a glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast keeps illness away.

This excellent, common-sense health measure being adopted by millions.

Physicians the world over recommend the inside bath, claiming this is of vastly more importance than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing ill health, while the pores in the ten yards of bowels do.

Men and women are urged to drink each morning, before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of helping to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Just as soap and hot water cleanse and freshen the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the eliminative organs.

Those who wake up with bad breath, coated tongue, nasty taste or have a dull, aching head, sallow complexion, acid stomach; others who are subject to bilious attacks or constipation, should obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to demonstrate the value of inside bathing. Those who continue it each morning are assured of pronounced results, both in regard to health and appearance.—Advertisement.

You are to read the large letters with each eye separately, at a distance of 20 feet, and also read the following small paragraph at exactly 13 inches from each eye.

The fourteenth of August was the day fixed upon for the sailing of the brig Pilgrim, on her voyage from Boston round Cape Horn, to the western coast of North America. As she was to get under way early in the afternoon I made my appearance on board at twelve o'clock in full sea-rig, and with my chest, containing an outfit for a two or three years voyage which I had

If you cannot do this it is proof that either one or both eyes are defective or that you are now wearing incorrect glasses. In either case you require the immediate attention of a Specialist in Optometry. If you cannot qualify on these eye tests and are troubled with headache, eye strain may be the cause. Have one of our Specialists examine your eyes. By appointment if preferred.

Finance Commission Against Bill Urging Increase of Tax Limit

The Boston Finance Commission recommended in a communication to the State Senate today a decided cut-down in the plan to increase the Boston tax limit forty cents and to give the school department a thirty-cent proportion of it and the remaining ten-cent proportion to city departments.

A twenty-cent increase for the city and nothing more for the city departments would be better, says the Finance Commission.

The communication reads in part:

To the Honorable, the Senate:

Gentlemen—There is now before your honorable body Senate Bill [illegible], which seeks to increase the tax limit of Boston from its present rate of $10.62 to that of $11.02, and to divide the resulting increase between the School Committee and the city of Boston departments.

Of this forty-cent increase the amount of thirty cents is assigned to the School Committee and ten cents to the other departments of the city of Boston. This latter fact is not stated in the bill, but inasmuch as the increase amounts to forty cents and only three-fourths of it is given to the School Committee, the remainder will naturally go to the city treasury for general city purposes.

NO REASON FOR INCREASE.

No reason is given for the increase to the departments; nor is it specially stated in the bill what use will be made of the income accruing from the 10-cent provision.

It is apparent to the commission that the 10-cent provision for the city departments was made a part of the act by representatives of the city in order to insure for the city departments the amount of money which the 10-cent provisions represents, on account of the decision of the School Committee not to turn over any more money to the city of Boston out of its appropriation for new school accommodations.

Although the School Committee has power to spend approximately $550,000 a year for new school accommodations, for the last three years it has only appropriated $400,000, because it has transferred to the Mayor $150,000 a year, certifying that this sum was unnecessary for school accommodations.

This policy was pursued until September 28, 1915, when the Finance Commission pointed out to the School Committee the fallacy of such procedure, remarking that the School Committee, by resorting to borrowed money and at the same time turning over to the City of Boston money derived from the tax rate, was helping to support the City of Boston departments' current expenses from the proceeds of borrowed money.

BEHIND OTHER CITIES.

The commission has had a corps of educational experts make a study of the school situation in Boston and they report that for school buildings Boston pays more and the child receives less than in other progressive cities.

The commission recommends:

1. That the tax limit be fixed at $10.82, so as to exclude any portion of the increase being allotted to any departments of the city of Boston other than the School Committee.

2. That the allotment to the School Committee for new school accommodations be increased by not more than twenty cents, making a total of fifty cents instead of sixty cents of the tax rate.

3.—That sections 3, 4, 5 and 6 be passed in their present form.

'SILENCE ROOMS' AT CHALMERS PLANT

"Playing a leading part in the automobile maker's march toward perfection is the anti-noise campaign which has been waged since the early days of the industry," says C. A. Pfeffer, vice-president and assistant general manager of the Chalmers Motor Company.

"We can all remember the terrible racket made by the old chain-driven models and the noisy cough of the exhaust before the days of shaft-driven cars and efficient mufflers. Today the modern motor car is as free from noise and vibration as engineering science has been able to make it, but the good fight is still being carried on with gratifying results.

VIM DEALERS TO BANQUET TONIGHT

The Vim Motor Truck Company of Philadelphia, manufacturers of the Vim one-half-ton delivery truck, will give a banquet to their New England dealers through their representative, C. E. Wheeler, New England sales manager, at the Hotel Westminster, at 10 o'clock tonight.

Arrangements have been made for a pleasant time and a large attendance is expected. The idea has met with much enthusiasm among Vim dealers. The object of the banquet is to get the Vim dealers acquainted with one another and to promote the organization of a New England Vim Dealers' Association.

KISSEL KARS HAVE FINE INDIVIDUALITY

The individuality in a Kissel Kar is substantially due to the fact that the Kissels plan and build their own bodies. This individuality extends to the mechanical units of the car; it has a Kissel-built motor. A woman recently drove one of these cars across the continent without having to raise the hood once. The axles, too, are Kissel-built, and axle trouble is practically unheard of in Kissel Kars. Metals used are of the best material obtainable and they are heat-treated in the Kissel factory.

PEERLESS EXHIBIT VERY ATTRACTIVE

One of the most attractive exhibits in the main hall of the Auto Show is that of the Peerless by the Beacon Motor Car Company. Here are shown two big limousines, three touring cars and a big touring roadster, seating three persons with comfort, besides a neat appearing chassis, showing the working parts of the machine. The booth, too, is artistically decorated, with potted palms and roses.

The new Peerless "Eight" is designed to meet the demand for a high-grade, light-weight car. The Peerless Company has been building motor cars for nearly fifteen years, and has manufactured almost every type from the six-horsepower single cylinder, weighing 1,000 pounds, to the sixty-horsepower six-cylinder, which weighed 5,000 pounds. With this experience the company was particularly well equipped to design and build a high-grade, light-weight car that could be sold for less than $2,000. The new "Eight," equipped with a seven-passenger touring body ready for the road, weighs 3,500 pounds, or 500 to 1,500 pounds lighter than many cars of the same capacity.

RAILS AFFECTED SLIGHTLY BY SELLING

By BOERSIANER.

A miniature market, it reflected in a small way the German advance on Verdun and the preliminary test in the House of the McLemore resolution.

Overnight news from the battlefields in France being unfavorable to the side with which the Street is in sympathy, stocks were sold professionally. The selling affected the rails slightly, the industrials moderately, and some of the specialties considerably.

A novel point of bearish discussion was that the aggressive marine warfare threatened by Germany would imperil the Atlantic cable service. Cables are rather closely bunched around the southwestern corner of Ireland.

* * *

Later there was a rally, the result of the House's vote, the same sort of a recovery that took place last week when the Senate decided to give the President a free hand. Why the market should have rebounded on provisional endorsement of a policy that has the appearance of being anything but conciliatory is a crotchety question. But rebound it did to about the closing quotations of the day before.

Most of the rallies were about a point from the bottom. Here and there an issue did better, there and here a stock dropped beneath the level of the early trading.

In the adverse movement were the certificates of the California Petroleum Company. The Street took twenty-four hours to pass judgment on the company's annual report for the calendar year and then pronounced a rather severe sentence. There were, however, extenuating circumstances. In the fore part of 1915 there was over-production and prices were depressed. The boom in the industry did not begin till ninety days ago.

* * *

Rock Island sold off and continued weak on the assumption that the refunding bonds would be foreclosed.

Though the management of the Rock Island became incompetent from the day the Reid-Moore syndicate dominated, the latest tragedy of the property may be traced to an unfortunate clause in the refunding mortgage which stipulated that no securities junior to the refunding bonds must be emitted.

Mr. Brandeis' Fitness for the Supreme Bench

THE more that Mr. Brandeis' enemies testify to, the more Mr. Brandeis' fitness for the Supreme Bench is emphasized.

The attacks upon Mr. Brandeis' character and professional integrity and attainments have fallen absolutely flat.

And the hidden animus of these attacks, which is corporation dislike of Mr. Brandeis, is the very thing that above all others recommends Mr. Brandeis to the confidence of the American people.

Mr. Brandeis' appointment will be confirmed and ought to be confirmed.

We need men like him in all our courts—including the Supreme Court itself.

Boston's Streets Should Not Be Monopolized for Private Gain

THERE is a bill pending before the Legislature which establishes public hack stands in the streets of Boston for the use of all licensed drivers of automobiles for hire.

Under a ruling by the Police Commissioner the public streets at most convenient junctions are monopolized for the use of special favorites. It is fallaciously assumed that adjoining property owners have some monopoly in the use of the streets in front of their property, and this assumption is apparently made the basis of the Police Commissioner's attitude in the matter. So the adjoining property owners capitalize the privilege which the Police Commissioner so gratuitously grants them by charging the taxicab companies for the enjoyment of the monopoly and the taxicab companies add this to the price of their charges to the public.

This is one of the causes for the unusual high price of taxicab fares in Boston. Moreover, the monopoly of these stands gives the taxi company, which enjoys the monopoly, the opportunity to charge monopoly prices.

Boston is one of the very few large cities where such a condition has been allowed to continue. In New York and other cities experience has demonstrated that with the streets free to all licensed taxi drivers, lower rates are given, and the public uses this form of transportation so much more under these conditions that most owners of taxis make more money than under the old condition of monopoly such as we have in Boston.

The public pays the expense of maintaining public streets, and whatever the Police Commissioner's argument may be concerning the wisdom and justice of limiting the enjoyment of public stands, it certainly is not right or just either to the public or to the independent taxi drivers that the privilege to use any part of the public highways should be capitalized for the benefit of people who have no especial right in the highways, to the disadvantage and cost of the general public.

A Species of Treason to the Country

ON board the British ship Canopic when she sailed for the Mediterranean last Friday were a man and wife from Brooklyn, N. Y.

They knew that the ship would mount guns at Gibraltar and that she was therefore apt to be sunk on sight by a hostile submarine. The man declared that this possibility made the voyage all the more pleasantly exciting, and that they looked forward to having an adventure.

These people had no pressing errand in Europe. They did not have to leave their Brooklyn home at all. And if their errand had been imperative they could have as easily sailed on any one of a dozen unarmed and therefore safe steamers.

These two Americans deliberately thrust themselves into peril, yet if they do happen to be drowned there will be fresh complications and there might be war.

The man in question devotes his time and fortune to the hobby of collecting old bottles, from which fact it is easy to estimate his immense usefulness to the nation. But valuable to the nation as is such an intelligent and productive career, we think that it is asking rather too much to sacrifice many thousands of American boys and many millions of American wealth to avenge the loss of this eminent citizen if he happens to be lost while on a foolhardy and absolutely unnecessary errand.

The plain truth is that these Americans and all other Americans who risk their lives and their country's peace and security for the sake of morbid excitement are unpatriotic citizens, are very bad citizens.

They are emphatically, as Senator Stone said the other day, guilty of a species of moral treason against their own people.

It is monstrous that the safety of the whole nation should be permitted to be put in constant jeopardy by such persons.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

Preparedness a la Congress!

The present plans of defence under discussion in Congress would give the country an adequate army and navy in five years.

IF you find a collection of hard-visaged tramps—
Unlaundered and ill favored 'boes—
In a whispering group peering into the coop
Where your chickens are wooing repose,
Pray don't get excited, just say to your wife:
"I am coming to think, more and more,
That inside of a year I must purchase, my dear,
A lock for that chicken house door!"

IF fortune has made you the boss of a bank
Where ten millions are salted away,
And somebody lets slip a reliable tip
Of a plot to go through it to-day,
Pray, don't get uneasy—be like Uncle Sam;
Were he to trade places with you,
He would say with a sigh: "Before ten years go by
I will put on a watchman or two!"

IF some one, offended by something you've said,
Or some unintentional slight,
Stocks up with a bun and goes 'round with a gun
Declaring he'll shoot you on sight,
Remark, as you duck down back alleys and streets
Intent on avoiding a row:
"A means of defence would involve much expense,
And I can't quite afford it just now."

Gulled, as It Were, Into a False Sense of Security

Moewe means gull, a name which would have fitted the Appam much better.

As to Mr. Hughes' Repeated Refusals

Methinks the Justice doth protest too much!

Fitting

Inasmuch as every one will mistake the big new hot air plant in the Capitol plaza for a memorial, why not name it after William Jennings Bryan?

An Ill Wind

No more Americans horses are to be bought for the war, which may be bad news—but not to the horses.

Logic

The Atlantic Ocean has also kept us out of the war, but that is no reason for electing it President if a war shall come.

The Cause of Typhus Fever

By Woods Hutchinson, M. D.

The World's Best Known Writer on Medical Subjects.

PART ONE.

IT'S an ill wind that blows nobody any good.

Our greatest permanent advances in sanitation have been made in the fight against some fierce epidemic of pestilence, and even the savage whirlwind and hurricane of war may be followed by healing showers.

Recent dispatches from Mexico announce that General Carranza finds that one of the dragons in his path is our ancient and intimate enemy, typhus fever.

There is nothing surprising about this because up to about fifty years ago this disease was as common as pneumonia is today all over the civilized world.

How common may be judged by two significant facts, one that our common and still disgracefully prevalent typhoid is a namesake of the older disease, its name being derived from it by the simple process of adding the Greek suffix "oid," meaning "like," and when first separated by Murchison was regarded as a variety of typhus.

The other that there is in one European hospital, that of Edinburgh, a memorial tablet erected about the middle of the last century, commemorating the death in discharge of their duty of forty-five doctors, nurses and other members of the hospital staff within the last thirty years by typhus alone!

The disappearance of typhus from Western Europe has been so sudden and complete as to have something almost uncanny about it.

Beginning to decline only about fifty or sixty years ago, it died down so swiftly that within thirty years it had become one of the rare diseases in England and America, while today the average physician who graduated less than twenty-five years ago has seldom seen a case of it, unless while studying abroad. It has gone from Northwestern Europe and America with almost the completeness of the Great Plague, or Black Death.

The cause of this striking and delightful decline of a dangerous pestilence was for many years a mystery, but now that we have discovered it, it turns out to be an astounding simplicity.

Nothing more nor less than the white shirt, with its accessory institutions and accompanying habits, the steam laundry, running water in the house and the tub bath. Indeed, the vernacular term, "biled" shirt, phrases it more precisely, as the habit of boiling all human garments at frequent intervals is the keynote of the cure, for the simple but significant reason that boiling kills vermin.

But how could a mere matter of personal cleanliness, almost indeed of vanity and pride of appearance, have such a vital effect upon the spread of a dangerous disease?

Because the sole cause and carrier of typhus is that loathsome parasitic insect whose name is not permitted to be mentioned in polite society.

This discovery is quite a comparatively recent affair, partly because the disease had become so rare before the science of bacteriology was born, or at least before it had got fairly on its feet, that it was difficult to secure enough material for proper investigation by laboratory methods.

To do this we had to equip expeditions and pursue it into tropical regions where it still held out, among them, Mexico, where we have just heard from it again.

In fact, we are entitled to take a national pride in this discovery, since it was chiefly due to the work of American scientists, Dr. Ricketts of the University of Chicago, and Drs. Goldberger and Anderson of the United States Marine Hospital Service.

All of them risked their lives in the service of humanity, as the disease is frightfully contagious to all who come in contact with its carriers, and Dr. Ricketts, alas, actually laid down dying from the bite of an infected insect only a few weeks after he had announced his discovery of the cause of the fever, thus literally, in the language of the earlier martyrs, "sealing his testimony with his blood."

Girls Who Make Mistake May Begin Anew

Plenty of Opportunity for Women to Turn Back if They Only Make Up Their Minds to Redeem Themselves, Ella Wheeler Wilcox Asserts

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

A WELL-BEHAVED and industrious young woman vanished from home, and after a week's absence wrote to her family, saying "Forget me."

Those two words told the whole terrible story.

But they told something else besides—they told the unjust attitude of human beings who compose society toward an erring woman.

Had this young woman been a young man and committed the same sins, can we for one moment suppose that a letter would have been sent home to the waiting relatives?

Indeed, no. The young man would have gone back and his family would have fallen upon his neck with "no questions asked."

Just as this silent attitude toward the sons is wrong, so is the cruelly severe attitude toward an erring girl a stumbling block in the way of humanity's evolution.

I wish every weak and foolish girl who has taken one wrong step and believes she must go on to the end of the highway, although she longs to turn back, would take courage and make the attempt right now before she passes another milestone.

The Morgue and the Potter's Field and "The Island" are filled with those who dared not turn back.

In the parks and on the streets you may meet blear-eyed old women in rags, begging pennies of passersby. On some of these faces rests the lingering remnant of what once was beauty—the beauty which opened the door to temptation, perhaps.

And after they had started on the path they believed it was impossible to turn back.

Those Who Fail to Turn Back Find Time Adds to Sorrows

Yet had they tried, what fate could have been more terrible than the one they found as they passed along the highway of folly?

A few years of fine apparel, and carriages, and wine suppers, and travel, and excitement, at the very best. Always the need of hiding the source of these luxuries from the world, always the need of lies, and pretence, and secrecy, or else the utter sinking of the whole moral nature in a brazen disregard of public opinion.

And each year seeing the physical charms fading, each year realizing the nearer approach of that awful time when neglect and insult must take the place of pursuit and flattery.

And then the depths of degradation with premature old age and poverty and loneliness and the fictitious excitement of drink as the only relief from despair.

There are hundreds of such old women in our great cities today—women who made one false step, perhaps with the idea of escaping drudgery; perhaps through lack of will power and perhaps because of a misplaced trust. But whatever the cause, there must have been hours in the early part of the journey when each one of these women longed to turn back into the straight path and begin over.

And because she had been taught that nothing but death could remedy a woman's fall and that no amount of repentance or Christianity could gain her the respect of her fellow-men, she dared not try.

Yet in our great cities, too, and in high places, in the church and in society, women walk who have turned back and cast their follies behind them. There are good mothers and good wives who have built their own ladders upon which they climbed from error. The world offers better opportunities to women who reform in this age than ever before.

All occupations are open to them, and in distant States and far from old associations the woman who has the will and the desire strong enough may and can start on a new upward path. Self-control, tears, sorrow, loneliness, hardships and remorse will all be hers, yet are not these better companions for a few years than the inevitable results of a life of immorality and folly? The world is sure to despise her and shun her if she keeps on. If she turns back now she can compel it after a time to respect the nobility of her life.

Do you want to begin anew?

If you cannot find the way back alone there are sweet souls under Salvation Army uniforms ready to help you, and there are good women in silks and laces who will answer if you call.

And after you have made up your mind to begin a new life, be careful and avoid confessions and confidences. Your past belongs to yourself and your God, your future to humanity. Walk an ascending path and keep silence. You have as good a right to a future as a wife and mother as men have to be husbands and fathers, once you reform.

It is not an easy thing to do, but the life you are living is not an easy one and the future holds nothing easy if you go on. It holds the certain drifting from boudoir to street, from fine apparel and carriages to rags and the begging of car fares and night lodgings, or the morgue and pauper's burial. Not one woman in ten thousand in your position ever saves a dollar of her ill-earned money for the certain day when she loses the physical charms that are her only hold on fortune.

Better face a few years of hardship now, in an effort to begin life anew, than to go on to hardships and horrors indescribable.

Do not think of yourself as a hopeless, blackened sinner. Think of yourself as a foolish, weak and mistaken woman, no more lost to hope than the ten thousand men who are received by the world and society in spite of past errors far deeper and darker than your own.

Not as Wicked in God's Sight as Woman Who Makes Mischief

The loss of one virtue does not mean the extinction of all. The possession of one virtue does not mean the possession of all.

If you have fallen through one man's perfidy, or through an excess of love or intensity, or trust, you are simply a human being who has gone wrong through misdirected virtues.

You are like a plant that has become a weed through neglect of proper culture and care.

You are not as wicked in God's sight as the jealous, backbiting and mischief-making woman who ruins the happiness of all her associates by her evil-speaking tongue.

You are not as wicked in God's sight as the woman of fashion who marries a man she despises for the wealth he can give her and who hates her unborn child.

But your future will be more disastrous than that of either of these because of the rules of society, and you have no time to waste if you would start on the way of reform.

Cut loose from all the associations which you are compelled to hide from the world. Seek some new place and scene and go to work and build up a good life for yourself.

We can be what we will to be.

In-Shoots

There is no mistaking the intentions of the knocker, no matter what the results of his efforts may be.

When a man who has been successful in one line of business shows a disposition to dabble in strange fields the heart of the promoter leaps for joy.

A thick union suit has stood between many a modern fashion slave and the foolkiller.

The skirt is undoubtedly the modern devil's most alluring bait.

Every man has his strain of usefulness. Some fellows make first-class pall-bearers.
